VOL. 37 No. 10 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, January 18, 1992 | 60¢ Per Copy | 19.00 Per Year

The royalty who represent the many products produced in Pennsylvania hear Governor Robert Casey's address at the opening ceremonies of the Pennsylvania Farm Show on Sunday. Record crowds filled the Farm Show complex. Cars sometimes waited in two-mile lines to get to the show. This was the first year the show opened on Saturday and by the show's end on Thursday, record food sales were indicated.

Farm Show Schedule Change Attracts Large Attendance

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Moving the opening day of Farm Show from Sunday to Saturday proved to be one of the best things to happen to the 76-year-old state fair.

Attendance at the Farm Show is not taken since there is no admission charge, however officials said that crowds were constant from Saturday straight through to closing on Thursday afternoon.

Also Food Court commodity promotion booths apparently fared better than before, at least according to several people.

The Pennsylvania Livestock Association (PLA) Chuck Wagon booth sold a record number of food items, according to Beverly Snyder. On Thursday she said the tally was 47,373 total units compared to 42,000 last year.

OPINION

Positions Eliminated

In recent years, the long list of markets we cover has provided a special service to our readers as well as a service to the marketing organizations.

We mention it here because recently we have been notified that the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has or will soon cease to report a number of these auctions. While some of these markets provide their own information, the PDA reports have been the source of many of them. But because several people have retired and will not be replaced, the personnel is no longer available at PDA to cover these auctions. Especially hard hit are the western Pennsylvania livestock and hay and grain markets.

While we know government is slashing these services to farmers because of budgetory restraints, we think cutting budget in this area is not good. But once a position has been eliminated, we doubt it will ever be restored.

To help everyone involved, we have opened contact with all the markets that will no longer be covered by PDA. Whenever possible, by fax or by phone, we will obtain reports from these markets so that the coverage can continue as it has in the past.

We plan to bridge the gap so that you can continue to be informed of auction results and their trends. In more and more cases, we will need to depend on the market's own reports for inclusion in our market pages.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Prevent Hearing Loss

Farm noise levels are extremely high and may cause permanent hearing loss.

Research has shown that noise levels above 85 decibels may result in hearing loss when someone is exposed to that level for at least eight hours. Duration and intensity of noise exposure is important to degree of hearing loss.

A chain saw at 110 decibels may result in damage after only one half hour. Tractors produce noise levels at 100 decibels or more — well above the OSHA standard of 85 decibels for an 8-hour duration.

In order to control these exposures, the EPA has developed ratings for hearing protection using items such as foam earplugs and ear muffs. These standards are referred to as "noise reduction ratings," or NRRs, and range from 0-30 decibels. This rating is the number of decibels being reduced to the operator when wearing the hearing protection device.

It is important for all persons who are exposed to potentially damaging noise levels to wear hearing protection. Remember, hearing damage may occur in both young and old.

Hearing aids do not restore hearing loss, they only amplify sounds. Protect your hearing with the new generation of hearing protection before hearing damage is done.

To Consider Hillside Farrowing Pens

Dan McFarland, capitol region agricultural engineer, reports that many producers are finding "hillside" farrowing pens a good way to allow sow freedom of movement and reduce crushing of little pigs.

The overall dimensions of the pen range from 6 feet by 6 feet to 6 feet by 8 feet. The pen slopes, along the width, from 8 to 12 inches.

An 18-inch creep area is placed along the lower side of the pen. As the theory goes, newborn pigs will slide into the creep area, dry off, and return to the sow to nurse when they have a little more vigor and are in less danger of crushing.

Sows lie with their heads up or down, but most always with their udders facing the creep area. When building new farrowing pens, consider the hillside design.

To Purchase Cattle Wisely

Good herd health is vital to herd profits.

So are good cows. When you purchase cattle, you could be buying more than good genetics and good production. You could also be purchasing some unwanted health problems.

A good rule of thumb is to consider all purchased cows guilty until proven innocent and infected until proven healthy. Check on the vaccination and health status of the cattle you are buying.

Consider having some tests done yourself before making the purchase. Purchase from a single source if possible. Transport them in clean trucks.

Discuss with your veterinarian the vaccines that might be needed to protect your herd.

By taking some precautions, you could eliminate a very serious and expensive situation.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

Background Scripture: Song of Solomon 2:8-17.

Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 13.

Christians and Jews alike have often not known what to do with The Song of Solomon (or The Song of Songs). In this ancient book there is no overt religious content, no mention whatsoever of God. There is no literary or dramatic structure to the book and it uses many Hebrew terms that are rare in the Bible.

Just what is this book supposed to be? Is it an allegory? A drama? A Syrian wedding ritual? A Hebrew poem that reflects the influence of Canaanite fertility religion? Or is it a series of secular love songs that got into the Old Testament canon because it was erroneously assumed that they were written by King Solomon? These are some of the answers provided by various scholars.

Even if one treats it as an allegory of the relationship of Christ and his Church — one which is frequently used by Christians — there are passages of the book which most of us would be hesitant to read in a worship service. There is hardly anything in the book that could be called "devotional" in nature.

Let's assume for a moment that these are secular love songs, that their original intention was to celebrate romantic and carnal love. Is there anything that God can say to us through these songs? Can we learn anything about love from them?

The very fact that this book is in the Bible should dispel once and for all the latterday Christian notion that sexual union is inherently either evil — necessary or otherwise — or, at best, an experience that is essentially secular. The Song of Solomon's presence in the Old Testament assures us that sex is a gift of God. Like any of God's gifts, sex can be misused, exploited, prostituted, or serve as a substitute for God. But our problem is not in what sex is, but what we make it.

The writer of this book says "for I am sick with love" (2:5). That's right, in its romantic and erotic forms, love is a kind of sickness, sometimes even with aberrant physical and emotional symptoms. In the throes of this love, some people can't think straight, lose their appetites, run a slight fever, act obsessively and irrationally, and behave in a manner contrary to their normal state of intelligence. It is one of the few sicknesses of humanity that can be either pleasant or painful, or both. During the most chronic phases of this being "sick with love," we are governed more by our hormones than by our intellect.

Would anyone want to say that, in ordaining this state of affairs, God had done something less than divinely good or wise? We may not understand these overwhelming attractions, and some of us may not handle them very well, but that doesn't say that they are not without their appointed place in his plan of creation. If, then, we are squeamish about reading this book in public worship, if some of its passages make us uncomfortable, the problem is with us, not with those who wrote the book, nor our God who created us this way.

If we have experienced love in its deeper dimensions, we know that although love may begin with the hormones of attraction, that is just the beginning of the process. From attraction, we must move to genuine mutual regard — and we see some of that in the Song of Solomon — to commitment, and, most of all, friendship, the deepest form of friendship in which love has grown from wanting to giving, from possessing to sharing, and, as Jesus Christ demonstrated for all of us to see, being willing to lay down one's own life for the sake of the other.

WHAT DO THEY MEAN, 'THE SNOW REALLY DRIFTS IN THIS VALLEY'? WHY JUST LOOK, THERE'S AT LEAST A FOOT OF THAT FENCE POST STICKING ABOVE THE SNOW. WHY THAT SNOW CAN'T BE MORE THEN THREE FEET DEEP.

You'll Get Consistent, Risk-Free Performance From New Funk's G® Brand Hybrids

4393 105 Days | 4472 110 Days | 4530 113 Days | 4624 118 Days

New Funk's G brand hybrids deliver consistent performance even under the stress of heat, drought, marginal soils or disease pressures. So you'll get virtually risk-free performance in good years — and in bad years.

Backed by CIBA-GEIGY research

You see, these hybrids are backed by nine years of CIBA-GEIGY Seed Division research. With local testing in growing conditions just like yours. That kind of research produces hybrids capable of standing up to anything mother nature has to offer. Hybrids that maximize your profit potential, while minimizing your risks.

Get complete performance

Plus, you get performance across the board. With big yields. But with 95% or better standability... 25% or less moisture... and intactness ratings under four. And you get all that in the maturity groups you need to spread your risks even more.

Limit your risks

Get risk-free performance on your farm today by calling Hoffman Seeds, Inc. You'll enjoy the peace of mind that comes from planting these new Funk's G brand hybrids.

The right hybrids are still the best way to lower your cost of production.

Some of us were talking at coffee the other day about ways to cut our input costs for corn. One thing some of us are doing is to band our herbicide over the row instead of broadcasting it. We figure that probably saves us $10 per acre.

Then I was looking at my own costs later and saw that Jacques 7820 was my biggest yielder last year by about six bushels over my next best hybrid. Even with corn at around $2.25, that's over $13 more per acre. And nobody at coffee thought about cutting costs by spreading them over more bushels!

Don't get me wrong. I'm still going to look for all the ways I can to cut production expenses. But the other side of that equation is bigger yields; and that's where my Jacques 7820 comes in.

Farm Show Schedule

The Chuck Wagon food is prepared by 15 people working for a caterer and sold by dozens of volunteers who are members of the PLA.

Snyder said the volunteers sold 2,248 units of lamb stew, 20,625 pork barbeque sandwiches, 18,500 roast beef sandwiches, and 6,000 ham and cheese sandwiches.

"It helped considerably," Snyder said of making Saturday open to the public and making Thursday the last day. "I've seen a lot more families. And the horse show day, the horse pulling day, is still the biggest day.

The day change for the Farm Show was approved two years ago by the state Farm Show Commission which was acting mainly to help exhibitors get out on the road home before weekend traffic caused congestions and increased risks.

The result seems to have been a stimulation of interest in the show. Several hundred animals were turned away this year. The dairy show was bigger. More people showed up overall.

Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff said he was also very pleased with the results. He is chairman of the Farm Show Commission.

"I thought we had great attendance, great weather and a great time, but I'm most pleased with the fact that I talked to commercial exhibitors who told me they were pleased with the level of interest in their products," Wolff said.

"I am also pleased with the $25,000 price paid for the Farm Show steer. That's a big record that may stand for a while," Wolff said.

Gene Schenck, press secretary for Wolff said, "I think the commission is very obviously pleased with the decision to go to opening the show on Saturyda with the idea to attract people. They certainly were correct in their assumption.

"I don't think anybody disputes the fact that it was a good move. Every day was a big crowd," Schenck said.

Events such as the youth rodeo, the selection for the supreme dairy cow, and others were packed.

"It could be the (good) weather," Schenck said Thursday. "But even today, last year they were tearing down at noon. This year people were showing products right up till closing time."

The dates for the 1993 show have been released. The 76th Farm Show is to run from Jan. 9 to Jan. 14.

Management Information For Barn Use

C.W. HEALD
PSU Extension Specialist

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Last year at this time I wrote about DHIA feed costs. With another year's data, let's review the situation.

High producing dairy cows cost more to feed and often require more expensive feed to produce at high levels. However, it is the high producing cow that usually generates the most profit for a dairymen, if expenses are controlled in a reasonable way.

"Feed costs are approximately 50 percent of the cost a dairyman pays for producing milk" is a rule of thumb often quoted.

The last three years were all influenced by abnormal weather in the growing season. In turn, the quality or quantity of forages produced the previous year affected annual milk yield.

Production was lower in 1990 because of low quality stored forages. In 1991 it was up dramatically. When production increases nationally and consumption does not, the price of milk generally falls and 1991 was an example of this trend.

Dairy farm profits suffered as a result.

However, average income over feed cost was not as poor in 1991 as in 1989 (see averages in the last line of the table below).

	1989	1990	1991
Average Milk	16986 lbs	16846 lbs	17656
Income Over Feed Costs
25000 to 20999	$2164	$2605	$2009
20000 to 15999	1639	1971	1507
15000 to 15999	1166	1403	1063
10000 to 10999	779	905	737
Average	922	1589	1298

Despite the weather effect, the higher producing cows are still the most profitable.

Feeding 1 pound of grain that costs an average of $7.76 per hundredweight (cwt.) for each 2.5 pounds of milk that yields $12.50/cwt. income, continues to be highly profitable.

A way to make this more profitable is to feed the best forages possible.

Forage analysis identifies the best forages and ration balancing improves forage use, increases production and boosts profits.

Now is the time to collect feed samples and have them analyzed. Your DHIA supervisor will be pleased to help you with sample collection and shipping.

For increased profits in 1992, maximize production per cow while holding the line on costs. This may be a good time to get help in increasing production per cow.

Consult your extension agent, veterinarian and/or local dairy consultant. It may be time and effort well spent.

If you like to be part of new upcoming programs, try the new DHIA Herd Performance Evaluator. This new experimental program might find some herd opportunities for you.

Call toll free, 800 DHI TEST (800 344 8378). The program is of most benefit to herds working with a consultant.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

? QUESTIONS?
USE THIS PROBLEM SOLVER

WITH DRAG AUGER FEEDERS			WITH BIG DUTCHMAN CHAIN FEEDERS
PROBLEM	CAUSES	SUGGESTED SOLUTIONS
System Stalls	Bad braze Kinked auger Feed level too high Too many feed cycles	File or grind excess braze Cut out kink and re-braze Lower feed level Delete a feed cycle	Chain never needs brazing Chain does not kink Chain runs at high or low levels of feed
System runs, stops then reverses	Foreign object in trough Bad braze at drive	Find and remove object Make sure feed cleaner is working Determine drive and repair	Chain virtually is unaffected by foreign objects. Feed cleaner is unnecessary and system cannot run backwards
Feed on floor at row ends	Elbows worn through again	Cut auger, remove elbows and couplers, replace and re assemble	Chain feeders have no elbows to wear out.
Feed line is not running	Failed motor	Determine which motor(s) out of the four are bad, replace and reset.	Only one motor per feed line.
Auger jumped out of trough (and is wound all over the walk ways).	Auger broke	Gather a welder, torch and grinder. Replace auger in trough, and braze. Be careful not to stretch auger.	If chain breaks, it is easily repaired with a hammer and chain breaker tool. Chain does not stretch.
Too many smaller sized eggs	Birds not getting enough feed	Add yet another feed cycle. (May require at least 8 per day.)	Chain feeders provide 2½ times more feed space than drag auger feeders allowing it to be run as few as 3 times per day.
Too many cracks	Feeder runs too often causing excess bird movement in the cage during laying periods.	Delete feeding during laying period. (Beware that reduction may result in smaller eggs.)	More feed space allows less feeding cycles, which means you don't have to feed during laying period.
Wasted feed in the walk ways	Feed trough lip is not high enough	No solution	Big Dutchman has high-lip trough.

The Youth Beef Breeding Show Results

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Where's the beef?" was a question easily answered by anyone in the Large Arena Wednesday at the 76th annual Pennsylvania Farm Show. Held at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, it is the largest indoor agricultural exposition in the nation.

In order to be eligible for the Junior events, the young people showing the animals must be 4-H club members or Vocational Agriculture students that have passed their 8th birthday but not have passed their 19th birthday by January 1, 1991.

According to Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester County Extension Agent, the events serve two purposes. One purpose is to further the desirable qualities that the breeds exhibit. The other purpose is to enable the young people to show that they can conduct themselves in a sportsmanlike, professional manner.

Derrick Carlise has the champion Simmental heifer.

Beef and breeding class events focused on the characteristics of the animals being shown. Within the Junior Beef Breeding Class event, one special class was Heifer, Bred and Owned by Exhibitor. To enter this class, the exhibitor must own the mother of the animal being shown. "That's the nucleus of a herd," according to Fairbairn. "This event shows that they can do more than just buy the animal." The young exhibitors must decide which sire (male) and dam (female) will produce the calf with the most desirable qualities, work with the mother, and "break" the calf after it is produced, she explained.

The Junior Beef Showmanship Contest focused on the individual exhibitor showing the animal. Contestants were selected while they were showing in their class.

Ron Bolze of Colby, Kansas served as judge for the Junior Beef Steer and Breeding events. Fairbairn, who was also a member of the Junior Beef Showmanship Committee, noted that the quality of this year's competition was very good and the number of entries had increased from previous Farm Shows.

HARRSIBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A state Farm Show record was set Thursday with the $25,000 sale of a grand champion market steer shown by Jodi Weaver, of Manheim.

The buyer of the $1,265-pound steer was Roger Campbell, owner of Hoss's Steak and Sea House, who said he buys youth market animals at fairs to support the youth programs, "Because I have the ability to do so."

The market value of the animal was listed in the sale directory as $873.

But supporting youth has been a commitment of many agriculturally-based businesses and Campbell, whose business comprises 27 chain restaurants, is very active. This past year, Hoss's bought animals at 36 youth shows. Last year, Campbell also purchased the grand champion steer; for $11,000.

The moment was made even more special because Weaver's step-father, Allen Dieffenbach, served as auctioneer, with Harry Bachman, of Annville, who has been serving as auctioneer for a number of years for the Farm Show and at many youth livestock sales, stepping down only for that animal.

When asked to comment on the amount, Jodi was unable to speak and wiped tears while smiling broadly and hugging buyer Campbell.

The new price broke the old record of $17,280, set in 1988 when Danny George's Foodliner, of Bethlehem, purchased a grand champion steer from Joshua Cowell, of Waynesburg.

All other prices paid were slightly down from other years.

Campbell also purchased the 1,300-pound reserve grand market steer for $2,200, from Curt Stockdale, of Armstrong County. Stockdale's animal carried a market value of $884, on a per-pound basis.

Hoss also bought the grand champion market lamb, paying $2,000 for the 132-pound animal shown by Craig Berkheimer, of

"You're Invited"

We are pleased to be able to present the noted soil scientist Mr. Wilbur Franklin at a seminar for farmers interested in profitable agriculture, using low input, sustainable methods.

Mr. Franklin, Director of Research of Growers Fertilizer Solutions, will discuss practical farm applications relating to tillage, soil compaction, water retention and crop nutrient supplementation. His presentation will also include an analysis of the impact of environmental issues on area farmers and information on how to conserve soil nutrition while eliminating environmental concerns.

Mr. Franklin brings to this seminar more than 36 years of on-farm practical, documented research. His education came partially from working at the side of Dr. V.A. Tiedjens, author of the authoritative text, "More Food From Soil Science" and the developer of modern Agriculture's most efficient solution fertilizers.

We look forward to your participation in this seminar. Wives and friends are welcome, for they, too, have a vital stake in your farm future. If you have any questions, please call the phone number below the seminar you are interested in.

DOEBLER'S ALFALFAS

How to pick your next alfalfa

by Willard Jones

It's not often that show stoppers like Doebler's Precedent and Starmaster come along in the alfalfa business.

Precedent is fast out of the ground at seeding. And it produces big, like a whopping 8.20 tons per acre in Penn State's 1990 trials.

Starmaster, a fine stemmed, dark green alfalfa, led the 5-year trial at Virginia's Northern Piedmont Ag Experiment Station with 25.9 total tons per acre.

So you can understand my dismay when a farmer tells me Doebler's seed is too expensive.

"Price is one of the last things to look at," I almost shout. Then I cool it and suggest these buying tips:

Look at performance. Precedent, for instance, produced 1.84 more tons per acre at Penn State last year than the variety that placed No. 38.

Check longevity. Starmaster showed its staying power in Virginia by producing 6.89 tons the fifth year.

Tie seed cost to tons. I put a pencil to Starmaster seed cost in that Virginia trial using 1991 prices. It was a surprisingly low $2.27 per ton of hay produced.

Demand good disease protection. Both Precedent and Starmaster are resistant to the big five diseases. Precedent also is resistant to Aphanomyes, a new alfalfa menace.

The Apron advantage. Don't buy seed without it. Seed treatment protects Doebler alfalfas from Pythrium and Phytrophthora during first critical weeks.

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager, with a couple of winners for you -- Doebler's Precedent and Starmaster.

MARYLAND DHIA

December, 1991

The December 1991 DHI information for Maryland dairy herds is listed by herd name, county, total number of cows in the herd, and the average production per cow on a 3.5% Fat Corrected Milk (FCM) basis for all milking cows in the herd. The herd must consist of at least 10 cows averaging 60 lbs. or more of 3.5% FCM per cow per day. All of the herds are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys and Jerseys, and the top eight herds for Ayrshires.

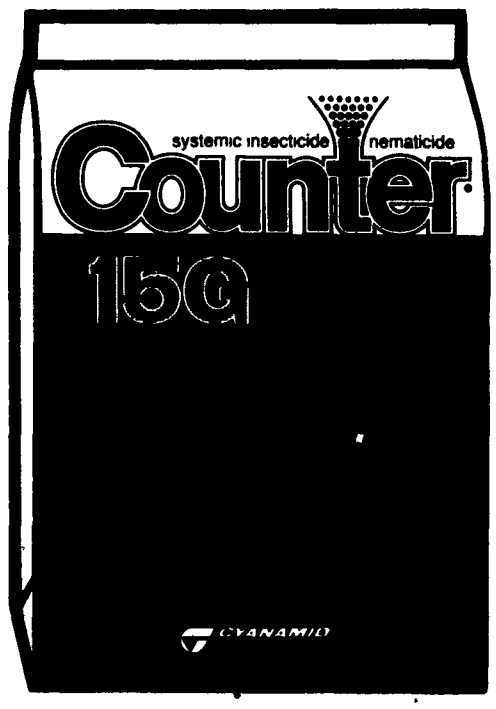
KEEP YOUR CORN STANDING TALL

ROOTWORM CONTROL Season after season, COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide controls corn rootworms better than any other corn soil insecticide.

ROOT MASS Tests conducted by nine major universities in the Corn Belt continue to show that COUNTER prevents root damage better than any other product. In fact, 96% of fields tested where COUNTER was used showed no significant rootworm damage. The next insecticide had no significant damage in only 82% of the fields. Don't risk a performance gap in your rootworm control.



VALUE More root mass, more consistency, more performance, more corn. With COUNTER insecticide, you get more for your money.

Billy Leib Three-Peats As Champion Of Wool Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Steelers couldn't do it. Not even the Packers. And until a year ago, the Forty-Niners tried to do it, and couldn't. And if they couldn't, who could?

What the Forty-Niner football team tried to do and couldn't, Billy George Leib, in his own way with his own championship special, did. The 11-year old wool breed exhibitor from Mechanicsburg picked up the supreme champion wool breed late Wednesday night, making it three times in a row he's won the championship at the Farm Show.

Judge Charles C. Hess, Cable, Ohio, picked Billy's Rambouillet yearling ewe as supreme champion of the wool breeds. Billy nearly swept the Rambouillet classes, also, losing out only to the champion ram, which was won by Meghan Hayes' yearling ram.

Billy, however, also picked up premier breeder and exhibitor at the show for his family, who operate Shepherd's Crook Farm. The show featured about 140 animals.

Kelly Glaser, 11, Lime Kiln, picked up champion Corriedale ewe with this yearling ewe. Kelly also won premier exhibitor in the Corriedale class.

Hess, who manages a 200-head Rambouillet, Merino, and Columbia sheep farm in a town northwest of Cincinnati, totaled up the "winning characteristics" of the animal in his decision.

Hess's judging style does not include giving out long lists of reasons, but rather speaking individually to the exhibitors about his placings.

In the Corriedale class, Benjamin Bow and Family were awarded champion ram and premier breeder. Darrell Martin picked up reserve champion ram and Kelly Glaser won champion ewe and premier exhibitor. Kimberly Hopple won reserve champion ewe.

In the Merino competition, Barbara Falvey swept all divisions, picking up champion and reserve ram and ewe, in addition to premier breeder and exhibitor.

Barbara, 22, Bedford, has been exhibiting sheep for 12 years, and manages 50 head of Merinos. She has shown many times at the Farm Show and at regional fairs.

Following is list of show placings.

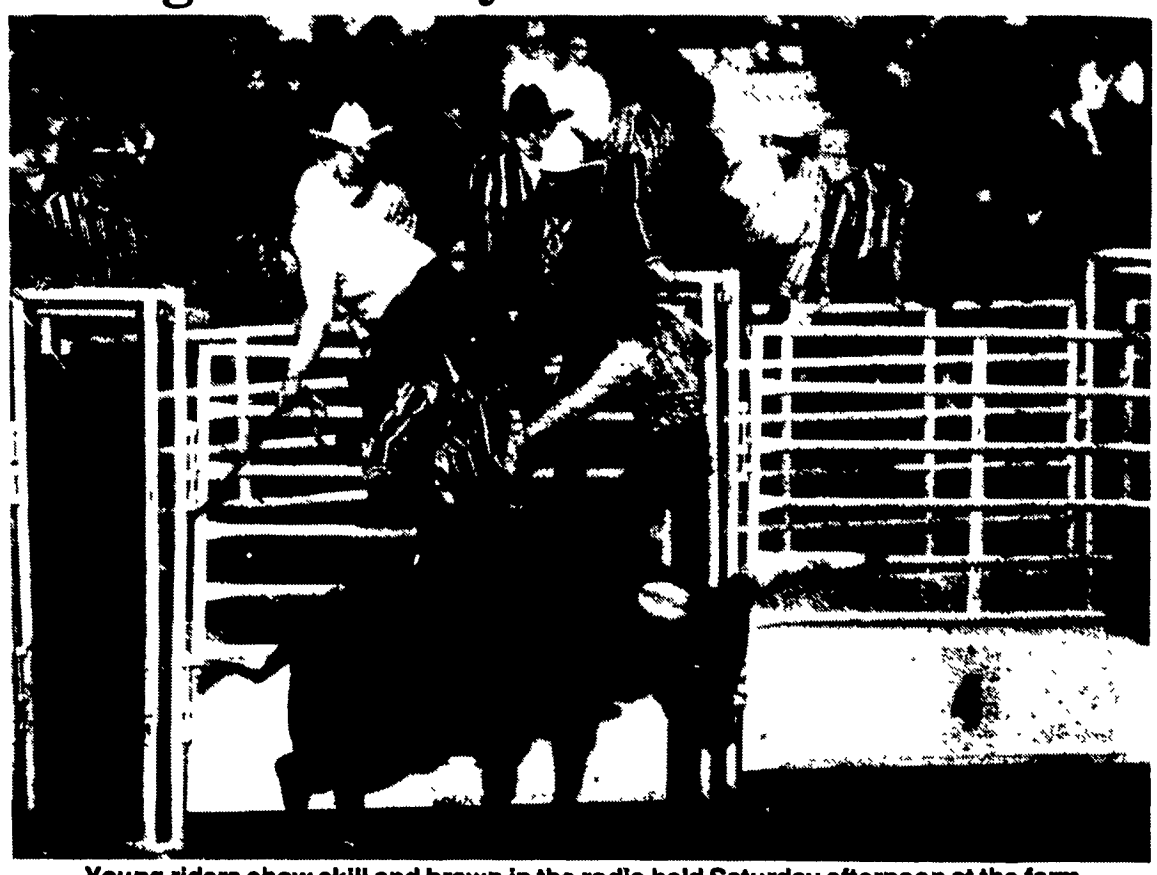
Rodeo Draws Large Saturday Crowd

Two rodeos sponsored by the Pennsylvania High School Rodeo Association provided lots of excitement for two capacity crowds at the Large Arena during the 76th annual Pennsylvania Farm Show. Held at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, the show is the largest indoor agricultural exposition in the country.

Presented by the Pennsylvania High School Rodeo Association, the rodeos consisted of ten events, with riders from high schools in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia participating. The events included Bareback Riding, Goat Tying, Steer Wrestling, Breakaway Roping, Saddle Bronc Riding, Pole Bending, Team Roping, Barrel Race, Calf Roping, and Bull Riding. Seventeen youths participated in the Bull Riding event, always a popular event for the spectators. Also popular with the crowd was professional rodeo clown Bobby Paul, originally from the Lebanon area, and his mini-monster truck, "Li'l Krusher".



Young riders show skill and brawn in the rodio held Saturday afternoon at the farm show.

Franklin Co. Captures Farm-City Award

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) —The Franklin County Farm-City Committee placed first in the state-wide contest for year-round efforts to promote rural and urban understanding during 1991. Second and third place in the annual awards program went to the Lebanon County and Tioga County Farm-City Committees, respecitvely.

Second place Farm-City Award. Stephan Vegoe, chairman, Lebanon committee, and Boyd Wolff, Pennsylvania ag secretary.

Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff presented engraved plaques to the three county organizations in the Small Arena Tuesday evening at the beginning of the Dairy Fun Night activities.

Led by Dalton Paul, the Franklin County Farm-City Program attracted thousands of people to their wide variety of events throughout the year. Those included an agricultural exposition at the Chambersburg Mall, an open house at the Lester Martin Dairy Farm, Franklin Fall, Farm Fest, Greencastle Environmental Center apple festival, elementary art poster display, job exchange program, Farm-City Week banquet, speakers bureau and distribution of promotional materials.

Stephen Vegoe presided over the Lebanon County Farm-City Program. They got people from their community involved in activies like a job exchange, media brunch, mall show, open house at a local farm, senior citizens farm tour, students tour, farmers business tour, business farm tours, annual banquet and distribution of food baskets to the poor and elderly.

Sherri Elder led a very aggressive Farm City Program in Tioga County and the community turned out in overwhelming numbers for their first Farm-City Day, held on a local farm. Grocery stores put farm-city brochures in each customers bag, city children got their first real look at farm animals and school children participated in a poster contest.

The county Farm-City Councils were required to document their 1991 activities in a scrapbook so judges could review their activities for the year. Four judges evaluated them on approach, impact, use of local resources, local cooperation and range of activities.

Secretary Wolff encouraged local organizations to get more involved in farm and city understanding by sponsoring events in their own community. For more information call 717-540-9300.

The next Pennsylvania Farm-City Week Celebration is slated for November 19-25, with a state kickoff in the Harrisburg area.

Dairy Fun Night Lives Up To Name

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Tuesday night at the Farm Show was Dairy Fun Night and from crowd approval and laughing it seemed to be a big hit among the numerous events offered during the Farm Show week.

The evening program began with state Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff welcoming the crowd and then presenting awards to the top three winners of the state's Farm-City Week program contest; the winners of the first Farm-City Week poster contest; and to Tom Eimsweiler, formerly in the agriculture department's markets bureau, for his years of service in promoting Farm-City Week.

The winner of the Farm-City contest was Franklin County's program. Accepting the award was Dalton Paul and John Shearer, county extension director.

Lebanon County received a second place trophy. Lebanon had won the first place award the previous two years. Accepting the award was Stephan Vegoe, chairman of the committee and president of the county chamber of commerce.

Tioga County received a third place award.

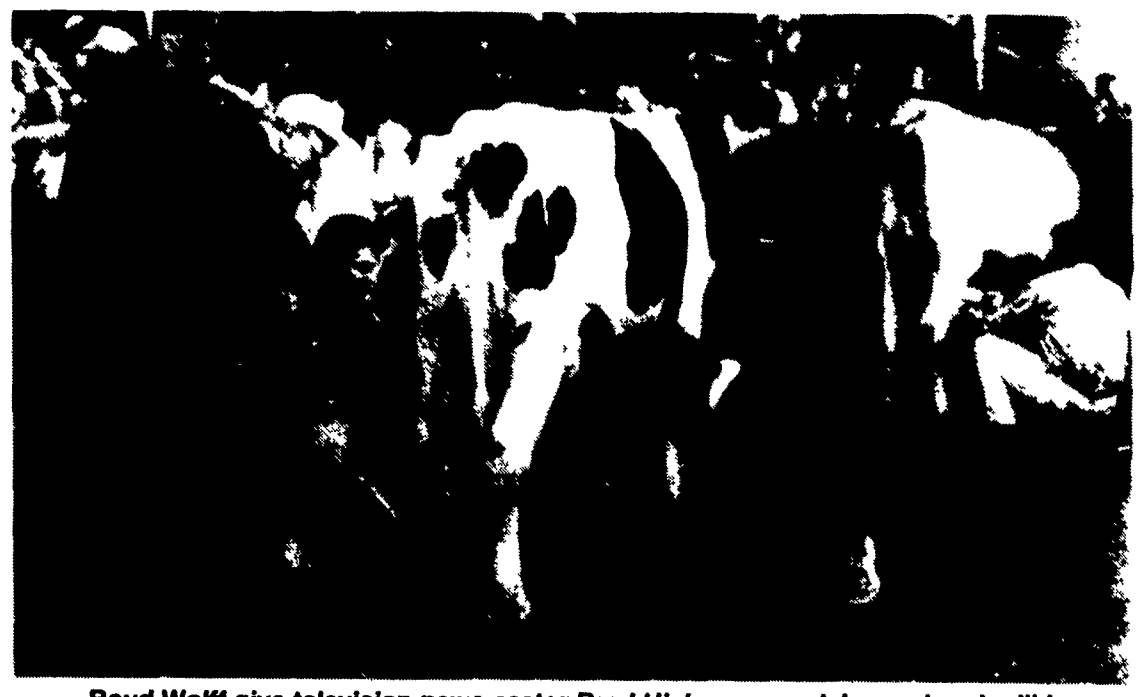
The top winner of the first Farm-City Week poster contest was Jody Hewitt, 12, of Spring City. She received $150 and a blue ribbon for her winning entry.

Second prize of $100 went to Christine Douglas, of Blairsville. Third place was Abe Sullican, of Dushore. Fourth went to Kelly Finkenbinder of Shippensburg and honorable mention went to 5-year-old Matthew Floyd.

The poster contest was sponsored by the state Farm-City Week Council, and set up a county fair contest as a first-steop in selecting a winner. One winning poster from each participating county was then submitted for consideration of the state award, according to Dyan Yingst, chair of the council.

All formalities finished, the games began with a calf-dressing contest, ice cream making contest, a celebrity dairy question game show, and a celebrity cow milking and butter churning contest.

The evening event is sponsored and organized by the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP), a dairy farmer-sponsored dairy products promotion and research program. Taking charge was Betsy Dupuis, who handles dairy promotions and coordinates statewide promotion activities for PDPP.



Boyd Wolff give television news caster Brad Hicks some advice on hand milking cows, while Gene Schenck, PDA press secretary, and formerly a newscaster with WGAL-TV, holds the bucket under the teats. Their cow was not very cooperative and the team was forced to switch animals to complete the contest. They didn't win.

Hand cranking ice cream is passed on to another generation as this youngster helps dad, while mom watches on.

There were two winners in the calf-dressing contest for the two catagories of dressing — television or movie star, and a sports hero.

The winners in the movie star contest were from Gifford Pinchot FFA in Dillsburg, with Dave Myers, Cayce Acker, Trish Erford and Heidi Dahlhammer dressing their calf as "Teenage Mutant Ninja Calf."

Northampton County won for their sports hero calf, a sort of "Willie Milkmaker," dressing a Holstein calf as a racing horse, ridden by Scott Longenbach.

In the milk moustache contest, Matthew Cordier, of Boiling Springs was judged to produce the best.

In the ice cream contest, the winner was John Hess, of Manheim, with a rasberry flavored home-made ice cream. Second was Connie Troutman, of Mohrsville, with a dutch apple recipe. And third place was Jim and Faye Rusinger, of Loysville, with a butter pecan ice cream.

The celebrity milking contest saw teams from radio and television stations vying for the award. The winning team was Tim Burns and Sue Campbell from WNNK-FM, in Harrisburg.

The Guernsey heifer calf seems to be asking how much longer she has to tolerate being dressed up as a ninja turtle. She was the winning calf in the television hero division of the calf dressing competition of the Dairy Fun Night at the Farm Show.

High astride his racing calf, jockey Scott Longenbach smiles with the announcement that the calf was named best dressed sports hero.

In the contest, teams had to hand milk a cow and then make butter by taking turns shaking containers until the butter formed.

The game show contest was played by Sheila Miller, executive director of the state Senate Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee, Steve Crawford, executive director of the state House Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee, and Tracy Yates, staff member of the executive office of PDA.

Yates won the contest with a big bet on the last question, edging out Crawford. Crawford used to work for Wolff as deputy secretary before taking the position in the House.

PDA Secretary Boyd Wolff was judge of the contest and ruled on answers. The game was not seriously competitive, and provided an opportunity for the participants to carry-on a little and enjoy themselves.

Beef Council Accounts For Checkoff Dollars

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Accountability for beef checkoff dollars highlighted the Pennsylvania Beef Council annual meeting held January 15.

"The past six months have been challenging for the industry and people are questioning the legitimacy of checkoff dollars," David Ivan, executive director, told members. "I know that you work hard and the one-dollar a head affects your bottom line," he sympathtized with producers. "But an economic study shows that the overall return on investment is estimated at $5.70 for each $1 invested in checkoff dollars," he said.

To show producers exactly how their money was being used to promote beef, Ivan used a video with representatives from food services, school and health professions, and retail industry that told how the Beef Council influences their programs.

A spokesperson for the American Heart Association told how Beef Council representatives worked with them to show how beef products fit the dietary guidelines for the Food Fare for Lighter Fare. School professionals praised the Beef Council for the excellent educational materials they provide for teachers and students in teaching nutrition. And retail and foodservice personnel told how point-of purchase materials have enticed consumers into buying more beef and veal.

Dinner speaker, Jeanne Sowa, executive vice president of the Beef Industry Council in Chicago, explained how the Council uses consumer perceptions to work toward the Council's goal of using checkoff dollars to increase demand and profitability of beef.

Surveys show that every year, Americans are eating a little more meat but poultry consumption is coming at the expense of red meat said Sowa. "It is our goal to recapture the market share we lost, but it's extremely tough," she said.

It's tough because lifestyles have changed. The traditional meat and potatoes dinner is no longer served. Convenience and variety are now in demand.

On the plus side, beef is still the number one protein sold in restaurants and retail. Away from home, consumers's choice of meat is 81 percent beef in comparison with 56 percent poultry.

Sowa said that surveys show that consumers' obsession with fat and cholesterol may be leveling off, which translate into positive news for the beef industry.

The Beef Council has hired a new ad agency Leo Burnett, the third largest in the U.S., which will be targeting a new audience. Instead of targeting light users of beef, the ad agency will appeal to moderate to heavy users of beef.

"We got to be sure that current and satisfied users of beef remain moderate and heavy users of beef," Sowa said.

The new ads are scheduled to appear in mid May.

The Council is also agressively using point of purchase materials in retail and foodservice categories. The Council has formed a partnership with A1 Sauce and with the American Dairy Association's annual cheeseburger days' campaign.

"Foodservices uses $20 billion of beef that translate into one half of all beef sold," Sowa said. "We got to team up with fast food and casual restaurants."

One of the most successful example of using research funds to promote beef was the low-fat ground beef product developed in conjunction with McDonald's McLean Burger. "That was made possible by your $1 a head checkoff dollars," Sowa said.

Ivan told the members, "We have tried to demonstrate accountability and the good we are doing with beef checkoff dollars. Together we are making a difference."

David Ivan, executive director for the Pennsylvania Beef Council, and Jeanne Sowa, executive vice president for Beef Industry Council agree that the beef checkoff goal is to increase demand and increase profitability of beef.

Each year the J. Ira Coble Award is presented for outstanding help to the livestock industry. Coble's son and Boyd Wolff, state ag secretary, present the 1992 award to Paul and Rachael Hower from Northampton County.

PMMB Adds 25 Cents To Milk Price

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — According to Donald Lanius, chairman of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB), the Class I milk price over order premium is to be increased by a quarter per hundred pounds of milk starting February.

"In 1991, Pennsylvania dairy farmers once again suffered from drought. For this reason, the PMMB held a drought relief hearing and the results show that everybody is in agreement — that dairy farmers still need financial assistance to survive," Lanius said.

The current $1.05 per hundred pounds (cwt.) of milk add-on is provided for in Official General Order A-868. The 25-cent extra is to be paid to farmers from Feb. 1 through June 30, to compensate for losses suffered by producers as a result of the severe drought conditions in Pennsylvania during the summer, according to Lanius.

Board Secretary O. Frank DeGarcia said, "The board shall monitor any changes which may occur as a result of market changes or legislative or regulatory activity of the federal government or other state governments or agencies which could have an impact on this order; specifically, changes in announced Minnesota-Wisconsin price series or milk pricing in federal orders or bordering states.

"The board may call a public hearing prior to June 30, to receive testimony from all interested parties concerning possible changes to this order," he said.

New Crop Of Master Farmers Named

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Farmer Magazine and the Penn State Extension Service, the Master Farmer Awards were presented at the Farm Show Tuesday. Winners were Gary M. Deeds, James M. Garber and Sons, Chris Kimmel, A. Clyde Ours, Jr., Roy Shull, and Paul R. Waybright.

Deeds, along with wife Janice, daughter Susann and sons Vincent and Wellington, live on a fifth generation farm but a first generation dairy farm, the only one in Summers County, West Virginia.

Before becoming a full-time dairy farmer, Deeds taught industrial arts while his wife supervised the beef and sheep operation. Then in 1971 he left education, and the two of them bought 40 cows, constructed a dairy complex with farm labor and materials as much as possible and today have increased the herd to 150.

Among other things, Deeds attributes his successful operation to computer analysis, which helps hold total production costs to about 12.50 a cwt., cites two pre-owned silos as an important part of his forage management system, has relied on 100 percent artificial insemination for about seven years, maintains clean barn, parlor and stall conditions and notes that of primary importance is the two-way radio communication that gets help where it's needed.

James, Phil and Roger Garber own 170 acres and rent another 810 in Mt. Joy for their laying hens, hogs, steers and grain operation. Jim acts as comptroller and tends the layers at the home farm while son Phil oversees crops and maintenance and is dispatcher for their separate trucking business called Garber Farms, Inc. Another son, Roger, with the aid of his wife Patti, keeps computer records on each farm enterprise.

The success of their operation that includes about 240,000 birds, 149 Holstein steers, 500 sows and 4,000 pigs and boars comes from a supportive extended family, careful records, a diversified farm operation that includes using all grain grown on the farm, grinding their own feed and designing their own system for adding fat to it.

In western Pennsylvania near Shelocta, Chris Kimmel follows in the footsteps of his father and grandfather, who were also Master Farmers in 1963 and 1940 respectively. Today, the younger generation of the family, Andrew, with the help of Peter, a college student, their father and grandfather farm about 1,200 crop acres and fatten 500-600 mixed-breed beef heifers a year.

The Kimmel family's successes are the result of efficiency, organization, precision timing and marketing, getting the most out of equipment, diversifying the crops, and an aversion to paying interest. Use of a computer in the future will facilitate the maintenance of already detailed records.

Selling most of the beef to a packing company at choice yield grade 3 with 61 percent dressing percentage, Kimmel reports the farm's average live weight at about 1,150 pounds. With grain prices low in recent years, he noted that the cattle provided the best market for the corn he grows.

A. Clyde Ours, Jr., with his wife Mary Ann, in the South Branch Valley near Moorefield, West Virginia, owns 1,010 acres, and rents another 1420 acres of cropland, pasture and woodland. Contract-producing more than 1.2 million broilers a year, the Ourses also prepare approximately 1,000 West Virginia feeder cattle a year for custom feedlots.

Ours says his best move was building the area's first two-story forced ventilation broiler house in 1968, followed by four more through 1985. One cost-control measure was probably the state's first whole bird composting system.

Buying predominately West Virginia steer and heifer calves and raising them to 800 pounds, Ours then trucks them every month of two to custom feedlots for the next 120 to 140 days for finishing.

Much of the 300 acres of corn and 110 acres of alfalfa is used for cattle feed and then mixed with about 20 percent chicken litter before storage. He also buys chicken litter from farms 10 mile distant to fertilize 100 acres of his remote tillable ground and pasture.

A Pipersville, Pennsylvania, dairyman, Roy Shull aims to make milk production as efficient and economical as possible. In partnership with son Art, who serves as herdsman, and son Tim, who also works on the farm as assistant herdsman, Shull handles the crops.

Shull and his team achieve an 18,300 pound herd average, milking in a double-six herringbone parlor with automatic takeoffs and shipped nearly 4 million pounds of milk in 1990. Farming success is attributed to saving both money and labor, notably in their process for disposing of manure which allows them to do in one day would would take a week with a tanker.

Shull's 160 acres plus 285 rented acres produce about 20 tons of corn silage to the acre plus six tons each per acre of alfalfa and a legume-grass mix despite some of the most poorly drained soil in Bucks County.

The Way-Brite Farms of Master Farmer Paul Waybright includes 622 rolling acres. Paul claims he doesn't do anything real outstanding but he says "We are consistent."

About 535 acres of his land was brought into highly productive cropland with years of soil conservation practices and heavy manure applications. Paul oversees the general management. Son David handles the machinery and cropping. Son Daniel is the herdsman and son-in-law Lee Bowers also works in the operation.

The farms are located on the Mason-Dixon line, partly in Adams County, Pennsylvania, and Frederick County, Maryland.

They have Registered Holsteins and watch production costs closely. They keep feed costs close to $5.75 per hunderweight.

Land is rapidly becoming a precious commodity in southeastern Adams County. "This area is becoming a bedroom community for Baltimore and Washington," Waybright said. "If our family is to continue farming here, it's important to have a good land base. We had to make the farm large enough to support our families."

Each year the Master Farmer awards honor outstanding farmers. The long list of farmers named to this honor would be a Who's Who in agriculture.

200 Goats Compete At Pennsylvania Farm Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Out of 200 entries in dairy goat judging held Thursday at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, the best doe in show went to GCH Walnut Bottom Jr. Artemis owned by Tom and Nancy Trimmer who operate Forty Crossing Dairy Goats in Alexander.

The Saanen doe is eight years old and has appeared in about 14 shows this summer. Although the doe took several best of breeds, according to the Trimmers' daughter, Leah Trimmer Kyle, who showed the doe, it was the first best of show that the Trimmers had won.

"This is a goal I always wanted to achieve in my five years of showing," Kyle said. She estimates that her parents have been showing four different breeds for about 11 years.

Judge Robin Saum from Lancaster, Ohio, said the quality overall of the show was interesting and challenging. It was the first winter show that she had ever judged, which makes it harder since does have freshened earlier.

In the Nubian breed, GCH Jasper Hollow Bonzai-Haiku shown by Lorraine Yankovich showed the best of breed.

Yankovich said, "Two years ago, she got best of show at the Farm Show. This year she went to national competition in Wymoming and placed sixth in her class."

The best of the Toggenburg breed went to Little Girl of Neshaminy Acres, Chalfont. Paul Joseph Plummer, who showed Little Girl said she won the grand champion title at several fairs. Plummers' parents bred the winning Toggenburg.

Ann Miller of Telford in Montgomery County won best of breed in both the LaMancha and in the recorded grades division. Roxspring Value Dixie Diana is a six-year-old LaMancha. Best Breed Recorded grades went to Rockspring Ace Terrific Tola who has not been defeated this year according to Miller. The eight-year-old Rockspring Ace is classified as excellent.

In the Alpine competition, Anne Leader took first place with GCH Shahcna'ko Z. Gypsy.

"She has a fantastic body that judges love," Miller said. "She feels very dairy."

The doe was bred AI from a buck on the West Coast. The Leaders have 25 goats and exhibit at six shows a year.

Goat breeders are excited about the National Goat Show that is slated for Harrisburg in 1993. "It will be one of the biggest ever," Yankovich said.

Happiness Reigns As Pennsylvania Farm Women Hold 73rd State Convention

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Society of Women were ecstatic when Naomi Bupp presented a $20,000 check to Arlene Witman, president of the state Society, for the organization's scholarship fund.

The check is the profits from the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania Cookbook, which Naomi personally funded.

"In 1970, my daughter got a Farm Women scholarship. That was the day that I decided that someday, somehow, I would give back to the scholarship fund," Naomi told the 392 members gathered for the 73rd annual state convention.

When Naomi served as president of the state organization from 1985 until 1988, she started the cookbook project. But the dream to publish thousands of recipes from Farm Women members across the state was slashed when money was not available for the project. Also, the tedious hours of proof reading and typing the more than 2,000 recipes were overwhelming.

Of the past years, Naomi said that she learned, "When the going gets tough, give it over to divine providence."

Believing that "the Lord works in mysterious ways," Naomi kept searching for ways to make the cookbook a reality. Numerous volunteers helped compile, sort, and organize the cookbook, but it was Naomi who depleted her own savings and borrowed the $17,500 needed to have the cookbook published.

The first issues arrived hot off the press in time for the annual Farm Women Spring Rally in May 1991. Since then, sales have been brisk.

"The success is unbelievable," Naomi said. With the sale of 10,500 cookbooks, Naomi has paid off the money borrowed from the bank, replenished her savings account, and has a $20,000 profit with a promise of more to come to give to the scholarship fund. In addition, the cookbook will be going into a second printing. (The cookbook is available from Naomi Bupp, Route 2, Box 157, Glen Rock, PA 17327, for $15 plus $3.50 for shipping).

Since 1960, the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women awards four scholarships annually to members' children and grandchildren majoring in home economics, home management fields, culinary arts and hotel management. Since additional funds have been added to the fund, the board will need to decide how to disperse the money. They may increase the amount given individually or they may increase the number of recipients.

This year, five scholarship winners received $500 each. They are Crystal Oellig, a food science major from Dauphin County; Patricia Bupp Bacha, a home economics major from York County; Amy Fyock, an apparel design major from Lancaster County; Kathy Esbenshade, a fashion design major from Lancaster County, and John Brenneman, a chef major from York County.

Another highlight of the Farm Women Convention was the "Naming of the Heifer Contest." President Arlene Witman started this project last year when she purchased a stuffed cow to represent the Heifer Project, which Farm Women are supporting by raising $9,000 to provide heifers and other animals to help third-world countries.

Judges for the heifer contest, Margaret Smith of Cumberland County and June Hertzler of Perry County said 255 names were suggested for the stuffed heifer. The judges selected two winners and combined the suggested names to make one name. Ar-Wit's Happiness Holli stands for Arlene Witman's name plus the Farm Women's theme, "For Happiness" and their flower Hollyhocks. The two members who suggested the names are Shirley Wenger of York County and Mary Fizz of Berks County.

During the business session, members elected Darlene Schmeltz of Dauphin County as treasurer and Barbara Hamper as director. Both will serve three-year terms.

Although 79 new members joined Farm Women Societies, 184 members died in 1991, which brings total membership to 3,371.

Those counties with new members included Adams, 2; Berks, 4; Cambria, 2; Dauphin, 7; Franklin, 12; Inidiana, 1; Lancaster 15; Somerset, 9; and York 21.

This was the first year that the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women held a one-day convention instead of the traditional two-day event. Morning and afternoon sessions were held in the State Forum

The evening banquet was held at Penn Harris Hotel with a vocal jazz ensemble from Messiah College providing the music and Dr. Kenneth Markely speaking on the marks of a happy woman.

Teary-eyed, Arlene Witman, president of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women, right, accepts a $20,000 check from Naomi Bupp for the scholarship fund. The money came from the cookbook project that Bupp planned.

At the annual Pennsylvania Farm Women Convention banquet, members clapped as Dr. Ken Markley of Narramore Foundation listed the five marks of a happy woman.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"How can you tell them apart?" "They all look alike to me."

That pair of back-to-back comments has been repeated countless times by non-dairy-farmer friends and acquaintances who stop to visit our Holstein cows and heifers.

And I've been guilty of the same glib observation of the flock of friendly ewes belonging to close friends. All those soft, woolly bodies do look alike to me at first glance, but their owners can spot individuals at some distance.

Our splotchy black-and-white Holsteins are born with their own permanent, personal markings, "hide-dyed" you might call it. Cow markings are like clouds — everyone sees something different in the shapes. What looks like the shape of Australia to me might resemble a dinosaur to you.

We've had cows with markings suggestive of everything from hearts to butterflies, a cloverleaf or the strung out islands of the Bering Sea. Somewhere a cow with the shape of Lancaster County once turned up. And Disney World is the home of a Holstein with Mickey Mouse's head on her left side.

To complete registry certificates for a calf, her markings have to be sketched off on the application -- a sketch for each side and for the face as well. And while a calf will happily stand in one spot and chew on your pocket as long as you might let it, that same animal lunges into perpetual motion the instant it senses that your attention is focused solely on it.

Multiply that activity in a pen of a couple dozen lively heifers, several of which will want to lick your elbows, nibble at your clipboard and devise a contest to see who can be the first to inflict you with butts and bruises.

Add a cold chill which freezes your drawing fingers. Then divide the available light at least in half because the calf you want will scoot into the darkest corner in which to try eluding you.

And so you have the basic scenario into which I recently plunged to sketch off four calves in a large group pen. These four had slipped past my usual registry timetable and been "graduated" out of the smaller, weaned grouping in which sketching goes considerably easier.

You move slowly here, working your way near the subject, trying to shoo away the friendly, curious pets (pests?) crowding in behind to sniff at you. With the edge of your clipboard, you nudge away the friends of the subject, like frontier wagons circling her against your attack.

Just when you have a clear view, she charges past, races around to the other side of the pen and slips smack into the middle of a pack of black and white bodies feeding at the hayrack. And, since you need to check her eartag to make sure you have the right calf, she doubles that ear in and tucks her head between four close friends in linebacker defense formation.

By now the whole group is in stampede mode, racing around the pen, kicking their heels much too close to your knees. And the subject KNOWS you are prowling her alone, and keeps one eye on you while she gallops past, heading off to yet another corner.

Meanwhile, in surprise and pain you fend off with your clipboard the umpteenth attack from the rear by a heifer, head-down and playfully ramming your posterior. As she gleefully dances away, you read the name on her tag — Scamp — and ruefully note that for once in your calf-naming career you have named an animal most appropriately to her personality.

Breathless from pursuit, splattered with manure, soggy where you've been chewed on, and with sore foot from being run over, you will with persistence finally get your sketch. You may, however, ruin a perfectly good clipboard.

But you know, our friends are right.

Piled together in a corner, or stampeding to the opposite side of a pen, heads and tails flying, those black-and-white blurs do all look alike.

Farm Show Queen Reigns Over Biggest Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Show Queen Wendy Will wraps up a year of duties with the show of all shows — Pennsylvania Farm Show.

After handing out ribbons at 18 other fairs, appearing at banquets, and parades, one might surmise that Wendy would be getting a bit tired of shaking hands and smiling. But Wendy is as thrilled with her duties today as she was when chosen from 33 contestants a year ago.

"I started going to the Somerset County Fair when I was a little girl about three-years-old," Wendy said. "I always wanted to see the Fair queen and I dreamed of the day that I could be one too."

After being crowned at Somerset County Fair, Wendy competed with contestants across the state for the Pennsylvania title.

The daughter of James and Mary Will from Berlin is now a freshman at California University of Pennsylvania where she is majoring in elementary education.

Before she went to college, Wendy kept busy with 4-H projects in dairy, beef, pigs, sheep, baked goods, canned vegetables and photography.

The Wills have a 650-acre partnership with Wendy's grandpa and two uncles. They milk 86 cows three times daily. Before Wendy went to college, she often helped her dad with the night shift milking.

"Milking three times a day works out well because we all take our turns," Wendy said.

Wendy also picked up some photography tips from her dad who also has a side business, Jim's Photo Service, which does aerial and wedding photography.

During the Fair Convention held in Hershey on January 23 to 25, Wendy will crown a successor. She said, "As Farm Show Queen there was nothing that I did not like to do. I got to meet some of the nicest people in Pennsylvania. Every moment has been outstanding."

Pennsylvania Farm Show Queen Wendy Will took a break from handing out ribbons to pose with her parents James and Mary Will, and brothers, Matthew, 22, and Joshua, 6.

THE ESSENCE OF TASTE: HEART-HEALTHY VEGETABLE PUREES

Many of our favorite foods have smooth, comforting textures. Mouths water at the thought of vanilla ice cream dripping with hot fudge sauce, a silky sour cream dip for dunking potato chips, rich wintry soups to warm up with, or a lemony hollandaise to dress a stalk of broccoli. It's too bad our favorite foods are often high in fat and cholesterol because parting with them can be such sweet sorrow.

Thousands of Americans are giving up cream-laden foods because they are learning how important it is to eat right. For a well-balanced diet and to keep blood cholesterol levels healthy, the American Heart Association recommends limiting fat intake to no more than 30 percent of total calories. One of the ways people have trimmed the fat from their diets is be eliminating those high-calorie creamy foods and discovering clever substitutions.

The Europeans were on the right track with vegetable purees. The French were the ones who elevated purees to a high-calorie art form. They transformed them into soups and sauces, thickened and served them as canapes and layered them between sheets of flaky pastry.

Today's interest in nouvelle American food and spa cuisine uncovered the vegetable puree's health benefits. Spa and nutrition-conscious chefs have long recognized that cutting calories does not mean cutting taste. They use vegetable and fruit purees to pack flavor and color into low-calorie foods. Many of these chefs are choosing frozen vegetables when they want a short-cut or better quality than the raw produce that is available.

Frozen vegetables do not compromise the quality of purees because they lend themselves perfectly to the recipe. Frozen vegetables are already cleaned, trimmed and blanched; you save time. To puree frozen vegetables, simply defrost them first. Because they are flash-frozen within hours of being harvested, frozen vegetables are almost as nutritious and flavorful as just-picked vegetables.

In their purest form, frozen vegetable purees are simply whipped up, defrosted vegetables with a melange of seasoning. The healthiest versions have no butter cream or other fats added. Because they only contain vegetables, purees have an intense, aromatic flavor — they are the essence of vegetables.

Vegetable purees are the health-conscious cook's best accessory because they are so versatile. They can be used as a dip for chips, a sandwich spread, a sauce for meat, vegetables, rice or pasta or as a base for a low-fat soup or pate.

The following recipes take advantage of frozen carrots and peas. Discover these new taste sensations or experiment with your own favorite vegetables.

GREEN PEA GUACAMOLE

10-ounce package frozen peas, cooked until just tender, drained and cooled

4 tablespoons mayonnaise

2 large cloves garlic, peeled and crushed

⅓ cup minced onion

3 tablespoons lemon juice

2 teaspoons chili powder

Salt and ground pepper to taste

Place the peas in a food processor fitted with a steel chopping blade and process until almost smooth. Add the mayonnaise, garlic, onions, lemon juice, chili powder, salt and pepper and process to blend. Chill. Makes 2 cups.

CARROT-TOMATO SAUCE

2 tablespoons vegetable oil

1 large shallot, peeled and minced (2 to 3 tablespoons)

20-ounce package frozen baby carrots, defrosted

½ cup dry white wine

14½ -ounce can low-salt chicken stock

2 tablespoons tomato paste

½ teaspoon ground ginger

Pinch white pepper

Fresh chives, for garnish

In a medium-sized saucepan, heat the oil until hot. Stir in the shallots and cook over medium heat for about 30 seconds, until softened. Add the carrots, wine, and chicken stock. Cover and simmer until the carrots are very tender, 7 to 9 minutes. Transfer the mixture to the bowl of a food processor fitted with a steel chopping blade, and process until very smooth. Scrape the puree back into the saucepan, stir in the tomato paste, ginger and pepper, and heat through. Ladle the sauce over chicken or fish and garnish with chives. Makes 3 cups.

For roll call, members told about something they plan to do or learn this new year.

The next Berks Heim bingo will be held on April 9.

Agriculture Day will be held on March 20. Each member of each Farm Women group will bring two items which, in turn, will be given to the Greater Berks County Food Bank.

Janet Schlegel reported 375 people attended the Farm City banquet at Riveredge.

Scenic River Days will be held in July of which the Farm Women are a part of.

Devotions for the March 2nd board meeting will be given by Group #7.

Members attending the state convention held at Harrisburg on January 13 are Fern Phillipy, Mary Fizz, and Janet Schlegel who will be ushers at the Convention. Group #10 made the centerpieces for the Convention Banquet.

The Spring Rally will be hosted by Lancaster County at Host Farms on May 27.

The Berks Heim Festival will be held on May 30th.

The Berks County Farm Women Convention will be held on October 3. Groups #1, 3, 4, 6, and 9 are in charge of the Convention with Lillian Bucks serving as chairlady.

Berks Society 11

Berks County Farm Women Group 11 met at the home of Doris Brown for the December meeting. Members exchanged gifts and recalled their secret pals. A business meeting was held. Judy Swope, president, will be leaving our group. Members are sad to see her go but at the same time are wishing her luck in her new move to Lancaster and to a new Farm Women Group.

Doris Brown will finish Judy's 2nd year and Wendy Lingle will be vice president. The program committee consisting of Linda Marks, Rose Hibshman, and Doris Brown ask the members to sign up for the month they wish to host the group next year.

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women's #20 met at the home of Vera Herr with Jean Ressel as co-hostess. Following the refreshments Jean conducted the devotions and the scripture was taken from 1st John. After the Lord's Prayer and salute to the flag. Ina Jacobs showed many beautiful quilts and told a story about each of them. Some of them were quite old and some recently made. Mrs. Jacobs titled her program "Written with a needle." The needle is a very important tool as the plough is to a farmer.

It was decided to each give a donation to the society to replace the money which was usually made at the Andrews Bridge Horse Races. Vera Herr and Anna Mary Groff are the delegates for the State Convention. The meeting closed with singing "Brighten the Corner" to meet in February with Valaria Ferguson and Jane Ferguson as co-hostess.

FARMHOUSE BEEF STEW

2 pounds boneless stewing beef
2 pouds center-cut shinbone
⅓ cup. flour
Salt and pepper
4 to 5 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 small onions, quartered
5 medium carrots, peeled and sliced
5 to 6 cups water
28-ounce can plum tomatoes, chopped
2 bay leaves
2 teaspoons paprika
2 teaspoons fresh marjoram leaves
10 black peppercorns
12-ounces green beans, cut
1 pound potatoes, chunked
2 cups corn

Cut the stewing beef into 1-inch chunks. Trim the meat from the shinbones and cut it into similar-size pieces.

Mix the flour with salt and pepper to taste on a piece of waxed paper. Dredge the beef and bones in the flour mixture.

Heat 2 tablespoons of the oil in a large heavy skillet over medium-high heat. When the oil is hot but not quite smoking, brown the beef and the bones on all sides until the pieces turn an even rich color, 8 to 10 minutes; add more oil as needed. Transfer the meat and bones to a plate. Add the onions and carrots to the skillet and cook, stirring frequently, until the vegetables are lightly browned, about 4 minutes. Add ¼ cup water and stir, scraping up any browned bits. Remove the skillet from the heat.

Place the beef, bones, onions, carrots, and their cooking juices in a 12-quart stockpot. Add the tomatoes and enough of the remaining water to cover. Add the bay leaves, paprika, half the marjoram, and the peppercorns; bring to a boil. Lower the heat to medium, partially cover the pot, and simmer until the meat is tender, 1½ to 2 hours, stirring occasionally to preven the meat from sticking to the bottom of the pot.

Add the green beans, potatoes, and the remaining marjoram, stirring them into the stew. Add the wine if desired. If the stew is very thick, add some more water. Cook, partially covered until the potatoes are tender. Add the corn and cook just until it is hot rhrough, about 5 minutes. Season to taste. Serves 8 to 10.

Culinary Skills Taught At Farm Show Cooking Demonstrations

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Daily cooking demonstrations at the Pennsylvania Farm Show attracted hundreds who were looking for new menu ideas, those who wanted to taste test unusual dishes or those who just wanted to rest their feet awhile.

The 30-minute demonstrations scattered throughout each day were presented by student chefs from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania and the Harrisburg Area Community College.

While the chefs prepared culinary dishes, they shared shortcuts, new items on the market, and cooking methods.

During a demonstration on Sherried Steak Strips, chefs from the Harrisburg Community College told the audience that for true Chinese-flavored dishes, saute in peanut oil. Meat and vegetables for Chinese dishes should never be longer than 2-inches.

For those who are often confused by recipes that call for spring onions, scallions, and green onions, the chef set the record straight. "All three are the same onion, but are harvested at different stages. Spring onions are tiny onions; scallions have no bulb growth; and green onions have a small bulb."

For easy cleanup when making rice, boil in a large pan of water. Use one-third of the amount of uncooked rice that you want when it is cooked. Simmer 12 minutes. Dump into a colander to drain. Steam 12 minutes. Rice will hold for hours without become sticky.

Chefs also demonstrated garnishing tips. To make scallion flowers, insert sharp knife into scallion and slit about 2-inches on either end several times. Cut in half and place scallion flower where desired for garnishing.

"Since the eye picks up odd numbers, the trick to garnishing is to use uneven numbers for color and design," the chef said.

Here is one of the recipes the audience had a chance to sample.

· Cut beef into 1-inch wide strips. Combine sherry, soy sauce, and garlic. Pour over beef strips. Meanwhile heat oil in 10-inch nonstick frying pan over medium high heat. Add reserved marinade to pan; cook until bubbly and heated through. Pour over steak strips: garnish with onion.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Lehighton, would like jam and jelly recipes for ground cherries and for American persimmons.

QUESTION — James Everich, Allentown, N.J., would like a recipe for cheese stuffing.

QUESTION — Eva Burrell, Glen Gardner, N.J., would like help with the recipe called "Believe It or Not Bouncing Snowball bouquet." The recipe appeared several years ago in this column. It uses citric acid crystals and baking soda to make mothballs bounce in a centerpiece. Unfortunately, the recipe that Eva has does not work. I recall that some others reported difficulty with the recipe. Someone said the reason was that today's mothballs are missing an ingredient that was formerly in the old style. I think the solution was mailed to us, but I can't find the answer in our files. Does anyone know the solution?

QUESTION — Christine Rudolph, New Oxford, would like a recipe for pork bologna without beef. She would like the smoking temperatures and times, if possible.

ANSWER — Marie Zawislak, Rahway, N.J., requested a recipe for Monkey Bread. Thanks to Trisha Simmons, Mt. Solon, Va., and to Cheryl Miller, Hallem, for sending similar recipes.

Monkey Bread

4 refrigerated cans buttermilk biscuits
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 cup sugar
½ cup margarine
1 cup brown sugar

Generously grease a tube pan. Cut each biscuit into four pieces. Drop the pieces into cinnamon and sugar mixture; toss together in a plastic bag until pieces are thoroughly covered. Drop half the biscuits into tube pan, layering them. Heat margarine and 1 cup brown sugar together in saucepan; boil until mixture is slightly thick. Drizzle mixture over pieces of biscuits in tube pan. Add remaining pieces of biscuits and drizzle with butter and sugar mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Let stand to cool for 10 minutes. Turn bread out on plate. Pinch off pieces. Do not cut.

Contributor usually places the tube pan on top of a pizza pan during baking because the mixtures runs sometimes. This makes cleanup easier.

Monkey Bread

4 packages refrigerator biscuits
1¾ cups sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1¼ sticks butter, melted

Cut biscuits into quarters. In plastic bag, place sugar and cinnamon, shake to mix. Drop each biscuit quarter into bag and shake to coat. Using an ungreased bundt or tube pan, drop coated biscuits in and pour butter over-top. Extra cinnamon and sugar can be sprinkled on top.

For variety, add a cup of your favorite chopped nuts or raisins to bag before shaking.

Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. After removing from oven, immediately flip over on plate to cool.

ANSWER — In answer to Jean Delp, Salem, N.J., for the deep-fried cookie recipe, Dorothy Ostrowski, Valatie, N.Y. sent several that she has since her husband is Polish.

Chruscike

Beat until lemon colored:
8 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
Add and beat 2 minutes:
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon rum extract
Add gradually:

Fry in deep fat at 350 degrees until golden brown. Drain on paper towels. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar or drizzle honey on top.

Tips For Nursing Home Visits

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — How long has it been since you visited a relative or friend in a nursing home? Probably not too long since the holidays have just passed. Nursing home residents usually receive more visits, cards and gifts at holiday times than the rest of the year. But what about the rest of the year? Residents enjoy company and mail all year long. The problem is people tend to get caught up in day-to-day activities and put off making nursing home visits.

There are many reasons why folks put off visiting. Some people don't go because they are too busy, don't have the time, or work odd hours. If you are one of these people send a note, picture, funny card or flowers to let them know you care. Others don't visit because they don't know what to say or what they can do when they visit. They don't know how to stay connected and actively involve the nursing home resident in their life. Debra Bryant, Wayne County Extension Director, offers these ideas and suggestions from Dr. Barbara Davis, Penn State Aging Specialist, for keeping involved with your family member or friend.

Activities that provide opportunities for touch and loving contact:

• A backrub or gentle arm and leg massage relieves discomfort caused by immobility and lack of exercise. Just rubbing the skin with body lotion is very soothing.

• Give a manicure. Clean, file, and trim the nails of both feet and hands. Bring along a file, clippers, lotion and a pan for soaking the feet. Many women enjoy having their nails polished.

• Residents often spend a great deal of time in bed or in wheel chairs. Staff can show the family how to help the resident with arm, leg, or finger exercises to maintain flexibility and function. If possible, take the person for a walk up and down the halls or around the grounds.

Activities to break the boredom and routine of institutionalized living:

• Take the resident out for a drive or to sit outside on a nice day.

• Bring things from home that are familiar or that provide new and interesting topics of conversation. For example, children can bring pictures or other items made in school. Bring photos from family get-togethers, old picture albums, or craft items being worked on at home.

• Have a meal together. Family members can make arrangements with staff to eat with the resident in the dining room or to take their relative out for a meal. The family can bring the person's favorite meal. Fresh fruit is especially appreciated. Many people would enjoy an occasional glass of wine or beer, but families should check with staff to make sure there are no medication interactions and whether a doctor's order is required. Where diet restrictions are involved, the dietician can usually find ways to allow special food items by making substitutions in other meals.

Activities to help residents stay involved in favorite pastimes:

• Many people enjoy cooking, but state regulations prohibit their using the facility kitchen. The family may be able to arrange with staff to use an activity room so the resident can prepare a favorite dish. A crock-pot can serve for cooking stews or other meat and vegetable dishes. Sometimes a resident can arrange with staff to mix up a batch of cookies and have the kitchen staff do the actual baking.

• Many residents can no longer write letters but would like to keep in touch with old friends. Families can help write letters or mail holiday and birthday greetings cards.

• For more information: An excellent resource for families is the book, What Do I Do? How to Care For, Comfort, and Commune With Your Nursing Home Elder, by Katherine Karr. (Haworth Press, 12 West 32 St., New York, NY 10001)

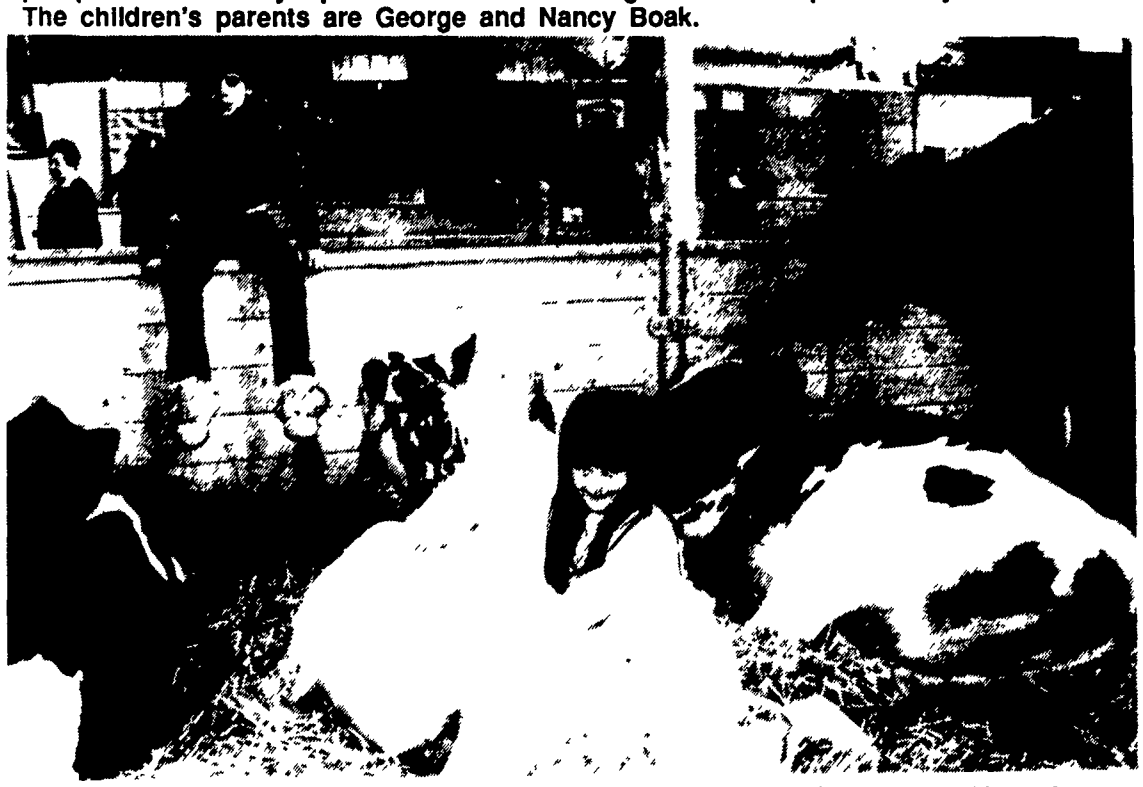
Kids At The Pennsylvania Farm Show

"These are real big and I like it because I love pumpkin pie and cake," said Charlene Boak, 6, of Paradise. She and her sister, Amanda, 4, estimate that the 540-pound pumpkin exhibited by Tip and Dianne Ruffner might make "100 pies or maybe six." The children's parents are George and Nancy Boak.

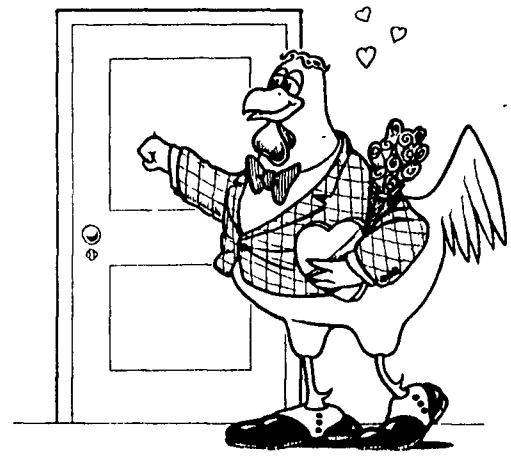


Christine Holtzinger, 7, finds that her sister's (Shannon's) cow is a cozy spot to rest. The daughters help their parents, Kevin and Karen Holtzinger, with Ke-Holtz Dairy of East Berlin. They have 275 cows with a rolling herd average of 18,700 pounds, and 215 heifers on their 900-acre farm. Shannon (sitting on the fence) said this is her first year of 4-H showing. She won the junior championship title at South Mountain Roundup and second place at District competition. Results from Farm Show competition were not available when this picture went to press.

A crowd of 9,000 attended the rodeo held in the large arena of the Farm Show on January 11. These kids wanted to see what it was like to ride in a rodeo. The announcer instructed the kids to follow two rules: "Stay away from the back end—it's loaded. Squeeze your legs on either side of the horse."

Madeline Barr, 10, center front, and her family wait to hear the judges decision for the Greatest Cookie Contest. Madeline entered Chocolate Top Peanut Butter Brownies. "I don't have any special secrets about making brownies but my family loves to eat them," Madeline said. She said that her mom is a good cook who wins lots of ribbons at the Lycoming County Fair. Madeline and her parents Carl and Stephanie, with Katie, 8, Ryan, 15, and friend Stacey Evans are from Williamsport.

Seven-year-old John Lagan, 7, admires the vegetables showcased at the Farm Show. The son of Jack and Ruth Lagan of Bainbridge said, "We have a garden on a hill and we want to make it like a farm, but the pumpkin seeds we planted didn't give any pumpkins." He added, "I think we should plant carrots because I like to eat them."



Kids At The Pennsylvania Farm Show

Joshua Stoll, 5, and Jeremy Blevins, 12, picked out their favorite bunny at the Farm Show. The Lititz boys said that this was their third time that day to visit the rabbits.

Farm Show goers enjoy testing their nutrition IQ and participating in the Dairy Quiz Wheel of Fortune operated by a "cow" alias dairy princesses at The Pennsylvania Milk Promotion booth during Farm Show week.

Chocolate lovers could not have found a better spot than at the contest for the Greatest Cocoa Cake and Cookies held at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on January 11. After the desserts were judged, bystanders could eat the 60 cakes entered.

Chocolate Lovers Sample 60 Cakes At Farm Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Judges proclaimed Dolly Longenecker from Elizabethtown as the winner of the Greatest Cocoa Cake Contest.

Dolly, who is only 18-years-old, baked a cake that topped 59 other cakes at the Pennsylvania Farm Show contest held on January 11 at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Her heart-shaped cake was decorated with chocolate roses that she formed from the chocolate butter cream frosting.

Since Dolly bakes cakes for Bird In Hand Restaurant, she gets plenty of practice, but the win was still a shock to Dolly who said that it was the first time that she had competed against other adults. In fact, Dolly had not bothered to take off of work to attend the Farm Show competition since she was convinced that she wouldn't win. After Dolly learned of her win, she regretted not having the opportunity to receive her prize, a weekend for two at Hershey, presented by Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff.

Second place winner was Lorraine Bannon, Waymart; and third-place went to Suzanne Virchick, Union County West End Fair.

Cakes entered at the Pennsylvania Farm Show must be made from the same recipe used by contestants who placed first in a local fair. At the Elizabethtown Fair, Dolly had entered in cake in the youth division since she was only 17 years old at the time.

Dolly lives with her parents Glen and Sharon Longenecker on a 117-acre Dairy of Distinction farm. She helps with the 70 dairy cows, pigs, steers, and a few chickens.

This was the second year for the contest sponsored by Hershey Chocolate Company.

Five judges each picked the best cake from a table of 12 cakes. The five chosen cakes were then taste tested by all five judges. The judges were Lisa Kudela of Farm Shine; Jane Herwig of Pennsylvania Magazine; Chris Fiscus of WHP; Barbara Grass, home economist; Reath Edwards of Hershey Entertainment.

"How do I know your girlfriend really baked this cake?" Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff asked Shawn Getz of Penryn when he tried to claim the blue ribbon for the cake baked by Dolly Longenecker of Elizabethtown.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Would you believe that we still have some snacks in the cupboards from the holidays? We bought crackers and cheese plus pretzels and chips to use with other refreshments for our guests. And, I made lots and lots of cookies.

Then our children sent boxes of chocolates and my husband gave me a bag of cashews. Some mints were sent from Georgia but they will keep for a while. There are simply too many things to eat all at one time and so I froze some of them.

A niece of mine has three hunters in her family and this season they shot three deer. Therefore, one of our gifts was venison bologna. Our son is manager of an egg processing plant and he brought two cases of eggs from Virginia. We gave each family a dozen of the jumbo eggs and I still have several dozen in the refrigerator. A fancy fruitcake came from Texas and it will take a while to use it. However, it is a very delicious one and will be enjoyed.

When I bake I still make several pies or a large pan of cake. It seems that I can't make only a small amount for two people. My latest guests were served big pieces of apple-raisin pie with orange rind and nuts added.

This winter I must try and use some of my dried food. Each summer I dry corn, green beans and soybeans. Then when winter comes, I go to the freezer and get vegetables for our meals. Maybe that is because it is quicker and easier to prepare them. But, storage is a problem and so I will empty some tins.

Data Base Provides Free Information

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — If you're searching for information on nutrition, you'll find a wealth of it in the International Food and Nutrition (IFAN) data base.

IFAN was developed by Penn State's Nutrition Center and College of Agriculture, with support from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is part of PENpages, a computer-based library of consumer and agricultural information provided by the College of Agriculture.

"IFAN can be accessed 24 hours a day, seven days a week," says Dr. Audrey Maretzki, professor of food science and nutrition. "All you need is a computer, communications software and either a modem or access to Internet."

More than 700 nutrition documents are in the data base, ranging from fact sheets, news releases, and book reviews to consumer tips and the syndicated column "Food for Thought." The information will be especially useful for those working in nutrition education and food programs such as EFNEP, WIC, Meals on Wheels, and local food banks.

"We add new materials every week," says Victoria Getty, IFAN editor and nutrition instructor. "Right now we're entering information on maternal and infant nutrition, special nutrition needs of the elderly and reduction of fat and cholesterol in the diet. Other topics include selecting leaner meats, consuming more fiber and choosing diets that reduce the risk of osteoporosis and cancer."

Unbiased information will be made available on foodborne illnesses, risks associated with food additives and food contaminants and naturally occurring substances in food that can cause illness. "Getting this information quickly to the public could be helpful during food safety scares, such as the recent Alar incident," says Maretzki.

The network also provides a way for researchers and nutrition experts to share information worldwide with peers and the public. Full credit is given to all contributing authors and institutions.

PENpages is available on an international basis at no charge via the NSFNET Internet telecommunications network. Pennsylvania residents who wish to access PENpages can obtain a free user guide from their county extension office. Residents of other states can obtain a guide from Computer Services, 405 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802; telephone (814) 863-3449; Internet address, SUPPORT@PSUPEN. EDU.

To have a document entered in IFAN, send it to Victoria Getty, Penn State Nutrition Center, 417 East Calder Way, University Park, PA 16801-5663, or phone (814) 865-6323. The document also may be sent via Internet to PSNUTRITION@PSUPEN. PSU. EDU.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

This week's column will begin with healthy snacks for kids. With a farm background, recipes with that "dairy goodness" are recipes I like to use. Unlike grownups, kids can eat anytime and almost any place. What we need to do is teach the children to make snacks that are actually good for a child and not just filled with calories. Making snacks that have pick-me-up power is what we need today. Convenient dairy snacks definitely fit into this criteria.

Pick-Em-Up Pudding Shapes

3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2½ cups cold milk
1 package (3¼) regular (not instant) pudding - any flavor.

Soften gelatin in one cup milk by warming milk in microwave for one minute. Then cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Pour into 9-inch square pan. Chill several hours. Cut with cookie cutters or into squares. Store in refrigerator. Makes 25 squares.

Double Chocolate Bread Pudding With Vanilla Custard Sauce

2 cups chocolate milk
1 cup or 6 oz. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
2 Tbsp. butter
2 egg yolks
⅓ cup sugar
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
6 cups day-old French bread cubes

Combine milk, chocolate pieces and butter in two-quart bowl. Microwave on HIGH 4 to 5 minutes or until milk is steamy but not boiling. Stir until chocolate and butter are melted. Beat egg yolks and add sugar. Blend small amount of milk mixture into egg mixture; gradually add to milk mixture, mixing well. Fold in egg whites. Stir in bread cubes; let stand one hour. Pour into well-buttered two-quart casserole. Bake at 325 for one hour to one hour and 15 minutes or until the pudding is set. Serve with vanilla custard sauce.

Vanilla Custard Sauce

2 cups milk
1 tsp. vanilla
4 egg yolks
⅓ cup sugar

Combine milk and vanilla in one quart bowl. Microwave on HIGH 4 to 5 minutes or until steamy but not boiling. Beat egg yolks and sugar. Blend small amount of milk into egg mixture; gradually add to milk, mixing well. Microwave on HIGH 1½ minutes; stir. Continue microwaving 1½ minutes to 2 minutes or until thickened, stirring every 30 seconds. Strain; cool to room temperature. Makes 8 servings.

Microwaving Cake Mixes

Prepare 1 (2-layer size(package of cake mix with pudding in the mix. Pour batter into baking dishes. Microwave at (MEDIUM LOW) for 6 minutes each layer. Then at full power (HIGH) for 3 to 6 minutes each layer.

For regular layer cakes. Line bottoms of 2 (8-inch) round baking dishes with waxed paper rounds cut to fit. Divide batter evenly between dishes. Microwave one dish at a time. Give a dish a quarter turn after microwave time at MEDIUM LOW and halfway through the microwave time at HIGH.

For cupcakes: Spoon 2 tablespoons batter into paper bake cups in custard cups or cupcake microwave pans. Microwave no more than 6 at a time.

After microwaving all cakes: When done a skewer inserted in center of cake will come out clean. There may be a few moist spots on top of cake even when cake is done. Run a knife around edge of layer cake to loosen from dish. Immediately invert on heatproof surface covered with waxed paper. Remove layer cake dish at once and peel off waxed paper. Remove cupcakes from custard cups or microwave pans and cool on wire rack. Cool cakes completely before frosting or glazing.

Tips For Cakes

When done, a layer cake should spring back when touched in center. For more reliable results be sure to use a national brand cake mix made for conventional ovens. There are also special microwave cake mixes available. Follow package directions for these mixes. Cakes, such as angel, sponge and chiffon, that rely heavily on eggs for leavening do not work in the microwave oven. Because cakes do not brown in the microwave, choose a dark cake such as chocolate or spice to glaze. Microwave cakes have a fluffier texture and rise higher than conventionally baked cakes.

Layer Cake

2 round 8-inch baking dishes
6 minutes each layer at low heat
3 to 6 minutes each layer at high

Cupcakes

¾ cup batter - 8 minutes at low heat and 30 seconds at high.
½ cup batter - 5 minutes at low heat and 15 seconds at high.

Mix In the Dish Yellow Cake

1¼ cups all purpose flour
⅔ cup sugar
2 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup vegetable oil
1 egg
2 tsp. vanilla extract
⅔ cup milk
Baking Dish - round 8-inch dish
Time at 30 percent or Medium Low - 6 minutes
Time at High - 3½ minutes

In a round 8-inch dish, combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt; mix well. Make a well in center of dry ingredients. Add in order: oil, egg and vanilla to well. Stir with a fork until all ingredients are moistened. Gradually add milk, stirring slowly to blend, then mixing with a fork until batter is smooth and well mixed.

Microwave, uncovered at 30 percent (MEDIUM LOW) for 6 minutes. Give dish a quarter turn. Microwave at full power (HIGH) for 3½ minutes, giving dish a quarter turn once. When done, top of cake will be slightly moist and spring back when touched in center. A wooden pick inserted in center of cake should come out clean. Cool on wire rack. Frost, if desired.

What Can You Do With 4½ Acres?

How much land do you think it takes to produce the food and clothing you need? In America, an average 4½ acres is farmed for every man, woman, and child. That's about the size of four football fields.

Put all these acres together and what do you get?

The things each one of us uses or eats every year:

616 pounds paper
306.2 pounds dairy products
193.2 pounds vegetables (except potatoes)
153.6 pounds red meat
149.2 pounds flour and cereal products
146.6 pounds sugar and sweeteners
138.8 pounds fruit and juice
85.8 pounds potatoes (including sweet)
67.5 pounds turkey and chicken
56.5 pounds fats and oils
33 pounds eggs
24.9 pounds melon
15.5 pounds fish
14.2 pounds cotton
11.9 pounds coffee, tea, cocoa
.5 pounds wool

That's a whopping 2,013.4 pounds for each of us each year...and it's all thanks to Agriculture!

Best Apple Pie Bakers In Pennsylvania Compete

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Apple pie enthusiasts waited more than two hours for four judges to choose the best apple pie in Pennsylvania from 59 entries at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on January 11.

What everyone learned is that there is more than one way to make an apple pie. In addition to the traditional two-crust pies and crumb toppings, there were artistic designs cutout and layered on pies. Some were topped with cream cheese mixtures or iced with frosting. One was baked in a bundt baking dish. According to the judges, all were delicious and devoured by hungry bystanders as soon as judging ended.

"Kahlua seems to be a popular ingredient in recipes. My daughter put it in a cake and won first prize at a contest so I thought I'd try it in pie," Connie said.

This was the first major win in cooking competition for Connie who enters the apple pie contest at the York InterState Fair every year. "This is the first time that I got this far," she said. "I'm going to use my money to buy more apples to make more pies."

Second-place honors and $60 went to Antoinette Fava who with her husband, Joseph, operate a dairy farm in Scenery Hill. This was Antoinette's second appearance at the Farm Show's apple pie contest after two first-place wins at West Alexander Fair.

"I thought I had a good chance of winning this time because I developed the recipe myself," she said of her Caramel Apple Pie.

"My mother was a wonderful cook, and without her example, I wouldn't be here," Antoinette said.

Another incentive for Antoinette to enter the contest was her children. "For years the kids competed in 4-H with dairy cows. They told me that I should compete in something because they do."

This year for the first time in 11 years, the only thing the Fava family brought from their dairy farm was an apple pie. "We had to get up at 3 a.m., to get here in time," Antoinette said.

Third place and $40 went to Kathy Freehling of Sarver, Butler County. She claims that her Caramel Apple Sheet Pie is "as ugly as sin, but it tastes delicious."

The pie, with the recipe passed down through the Freehling family, placed first at the Butler Farm Show.

This is the fourth year that Pennsylvania Marketing Board sponsored the contest. Judges were Roger Snyder from Snyder Insurance Agency, Richfield; Nee Davis, wife of DER Secretary Art Davis; Kevin Fisher from the Kitchen Shoppe in Carlisle; and Paul Baker from WHP Radio, Harrisburg.

Pies are scored on overall appearance and taste of crust and filling. Using the process of elimination, each judge chose three pies after sampling 15. The 12 pies chosen were then sampled by each judge and the winning entries chosen.

The first-place recipe is this week's featured recipe on page B6. Second and third-place recipes are as follows.

"Thanks to the 'cookers' who made the pies," said Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff as he announces the winners at the fourth annual apple pie contest held at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Wendy Will, Pennsylvania Farm Show Queen, center hands the first prize ribbon to Connie Shuff, who said that she dressed for success by wearing apple jewelry.

With her Carmel Apple Pie, Antoinette Fava placed second in the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest. Antoinette and her husband, Joseph, are dairy farmers in Washington County.

A. Fava
W. Alexander Fair

Roll bottom crust. Pour ¼ cup melted butter on bottom. Sprinkle with 1 cup brown sugar mixed with ½ tablespoon cornstarch, sprinkle with 1 cup chopped pecans. Top with drained apples. Add enough juice to fill pie to ⅔. Cover with top crust. Flute and make slits. Bake 60 to 65 minutes for 400 degrees. Protect edges with foil.

CARAMEL APPLE SHEET PIE

Caramel topping: 36 caramels
½ cup evaporated milk
Cheese topping:

Cut in butter. Blend together oil, egg, and cold water until creamy. Add this to dry ingredients and stir until mixture holds together.

Press into a 12x17-inch sheet pan or three 8-inch round pans. Place apples on pastry. Drizzle caramel in strips over apples. Spoon cheese filling in strips between caramel strips. Top with chopped nuts. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes.

Caught by the camera! Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff tried to sneak this pie out the door by hiding it under his hat.

Farmers Have Manure Managment Alternatives

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Manure nourishes crops, improves soil structure and reduces fertilizer costs. But manure applied excessively or improperly can cause environmental problems such as killing fish in streams and contaminating groundwater with nitrate.

"Sometimes farms have too much manure," says Dr. Robert Graves, professor of agricultural engineering in Penn State's College of Agriculture. "If these farms don't have extensive cropland for spreading manure, disposal becomes a problem."

Farmers in this situation have potential alternatives, including marketing, composting, burning, refeeding and producing methane. "All of these are possibilities, but each has drawbacks, risks and difficulties that might make it inappropriate for an individual farm," Graves says. "Marketing and composting probably are more feasible for most farmers than burning, refeeding and producing methane."

Because of manure's value as a fertilizer, farmers may be able to move excess amounts to other farms, home gardens, landscape operations, nurseries and other agricultural and non-agricultural operations. "Factors affecting this alternative include transportation costs, the manure's nutrient content and its ease of handling, which depends on available equipment and the manure's moisture level," Graves says.

Composting is another alternative. "This biological process uses microorganisms to convert the manure into a dry, light, odor-free soil-like product," Graves says. "When other products, such as woodchips, are added, finished manure compost makes a good mulch. It can be sold either in bags or in bulk as a soil conditioner." Buyers of manure compost include homeowners, landscapers and nursery owners. Compost also may be used on the farm as a soil conditioner or livestock bedding.

Composting is a simple process, but it does have some management and equipment requirements. "Also, because the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources views manure composting facilities as manure storages, the facilities used must meet certain design standards," Graves says. Depending on the composting method used, it takes three to eight weeks for a properly designed and operated system to compost manure.

"Manure also can be used as an alternative energy source," Graves says. "Poultry litter, for instance, can be burned as solid fuel." Penn State researchers have found that poultry litter can contain more than half the heat value of coal. Under certain conditions, a ton of litter is equivalent to 58 gallons of fuel oil, or 7,620 cubic feet of natural gas. "There may be some problems with the burned litter producing slag, and questions remain about gas emissions and ash use," Graves says.

Another option for using manure for energy is methane production. "A methane digester uses methane-producing bacteria to biologically convert parts of the manure into biogas, a combination of methane and carbon dioxide," says Graves. "The necessary bacteria are present naturally in the manure."

"The gas produced by methane digesters can be burned for space heating, drying, cooking or heating water," Graves says. "It also may be used to run an engine and generator to produce both heat and electricity." Methane digestion reduces manure odors. The digested manure is in a liquid form and contains most of the original fertilizer nutrients and must be handled accordingly.

Refeeding is another option. "Certain manures can be fed to livestock as a small portion of the ration," Graves says. "Poultry manures contain substantial amounts of fiber and non-protein nitrogen and are better suited for cattle feed than other manures."

The manure needs to be processed to increase palatability, improve storage and handling characteristics and destroy pathogens. "Proper processing eliminates the possibility that disease will be spread to the animals who eat it, or to their meat or milk," Graves says. Ensiling with forages, drying, composting and treating with chemicals are possible processing methods.

ASCS Announces Disaster Payments

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will administer a crop disaster assistance program to compensate eligible producers for crop losses caused by drought, flood, and other natural disasters in either 1990 or 1991. Pennsylvania suffered a severe agricultural drought in the spring and summer of 1991.

"To be eligible, producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent," said Donald Unangst, Pennsylvania state executive director for ASCS. "Producers without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent."

Program applications may be filed from February 3 through March 13, 1992. Unangst said that farmers will receive a special mailing with specific information on the program this month.

"If a producer does not receive the disaster program information along with a disaster program worksheet in the mail by February 3, he or she should call the local county ASCS office."

The 1990-91 crop disaster program provides cash payments for production losses on participating program crops of wheat and feed grains; nonparticipating program crops; peanuts, soybeans, sunflowers, sugar beets, minor oilseeds, and tobacco; and all commercial nonprogram crops which includes all commercially-grown crops not previously mentioned, such as honey, maple sap and syrup, ornamentals, flowering shrubs, trees, and turf. The payment rate for all crops generally is set as 65 percent of program support or loan rates or recent years average prices, but, may be reduced to meet disaster ceilings.

Unangst said producers who intend to file should begin to assemble their records now, so they will be ready when the program opens.

"The producer must accept the responsibility of preparing the worksheet, gathering supporting documents on the amount of loss and making an appointment with the county ASCS office to apply for program benefits," Unangst said.

Unangst explained that a producer may not file on one crop on a farm for a year and a different crop on the same farm for the other year. However, the producer may request benefits for 1990 on one farm and for 1991 on another farm.

The ASCS official said disaster payments would be computed according to the 1990 Farm Bill, and expects to begin issuing payments to farmers by April 16. Current law provides $995 million nationally to support this program.

After all applications are filed, they will go to ASCS' central computer facility, producer benefits will be summarized, and the national allocation factor for limiting total payments to the $995 million authorization will be computed.

Further details of the disaster payment program may be obtained for the local ASCS office.

Duroc Class Impresses Judge At Farm Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Swine judge Howard Parish said it would be tough getting half as many Duroc gilts at the Ohio State sale than were exhibited last week at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Parish was talking about the Duroc February class at the Bred Gilt Show and Sale at the Farm Show. The class had 17 exhibitors, one of which was named grand champion gilt, shown by Dave Holloway of Holloway Durocs, Glen Rock.

The champion Duroc gilt, DCH1 Ms Strong Box 9-9, bred to Gambler (due Jan. 28), was farrowed Feb. 10, 1991 by Strong Box (HP Tool Box and HP Miss 4 8) and JTP Fanny (DPF7 Clutch 3-10 and TM Faney 2-3 S88).

Reserve champion of the class went to Kenneth D. Fetterolf from a March gilt.

Parish, from Eden, Ohio, was impressed with the champion class. The "extremely healthy class had real good female heads, and the champion was long way down the top and showed a great deal of muscle and a lot of width," he said. "The champion female represents the breed strongly. It has strong shape, structure, and skeletal size." The reserve showed a "big, growthy female."

Dave Holloway, Glen Rock, picked up champion Duroc gilt last week at the swine show.

The Durocs represented the second largest class — the largest went to the Yorkshire February gilt class, with 18 exhibitors. The results of other classes are listed here.

Chester White

The Chester White class represented hogs that have "tremendous balance and skeletal size, width, and a great deal of muscle," said Parish. The February gilt, TM Diane P 9-3 S91, bred to P&R 1A BMW 29-2, due Feb. 7, was farrowed Feb. 2, 1991 from Plainsman 8-11 (WG9 Todd B 15-1 and WG7 Whitecap SPF 4-8) and Tm Diane 5-7 F89 (Rf7 Running Gear 1-6 and TM Diane 2-3 F87). It was shown by James Parlett, Airville.

Parlett swept the championship, also picking up reserve champion Chester White.

Hampshire

Another large class, with 17 exhibitors, was the January gilt class of the Hampshires.

The grand champion was a "big hog. She will make a big, easy moving, mature female with a good underline," said Parish. "It will be one that makes a big, productive Hampshire sow that she could build daughters from."

The grand champion gilt went to Todd Bennecoff, a February gilt, TTB1 Amazing Dixie, farrowed Feb. 1, 1991 from BPFO Amazing 5-2 and TTB9 Miss Dixie 5-3. The champion has a "high-quality underline and a youthful skeleton," said Parish.

Reserve champion went to Donna Strawbridge, Strawbridge and McCleary, a January gilt.

Landrace

Three powerful females emerged in Parish's eye as champions of this class.

"All my life I have believed that this breed has a positive place in the herd," he said. "If you can get one-quarter or one-eighth of this breed in the sow herd, it really something what this breed can do."

Parish was impressed with the length of head, neck, and underline. The grand champion honors went to the January gilt exhibited by Harlan Wessner, Rocky Acres Farm. The grand, picked up by RAF1 Tona, bred to Meno MO Mengo 22-6, due Jan. 30, was farrowed Jan. 6, 1991 out of CR9 Ives of K 60-1 (CR8 Ives of K 223-5 and CR7 Maiden 103-9) and Men 8 Tona 5-8 (Men 7 Fastination 38-11 and Men 7 Hot Lips 3-9). Rocky Acres also won reserve honors.

Bennecoff exhibited CAB1 S Bal-Pet, bred to CABI Balance 4-2, due Feb. 4, farrowed Jan. 2, 1991 from CABO S Balance Pet 1-1 (XL8 SAL Balance 34-3 and IXL8 S PK Pet 16-10) and BPPO F Minnie 1-5 (BPP8 F Satisfaction 3-1 and HPF7 S Orphie Sue 3-9).

The second January gilt exhibited by Bennecoff picked up reserve champion.

Leslie Lazarus and Bros., represented by Calvin Lazarus, won reserve Spotted Swine at the show.

Spotted Swine

The Spotted Swine are "bullish and tough," said Parish. "They're tough-made individuals. They are a rugged swine."

The January gilt, exhibited by Leslie and Lazarus Bros., excelled in its "build and ruggedness," said Parish. LLBI Sasquatch Chad For, bred to LSFO Austin King 2-9, due Feb. 21, was farrowed Jan. 16, 1991 out of LLB9 Chad 8-2 (TDHS5 Chad 34-1 and SCF4 AVA A 5-1) and LLB7 Chad's Foreman 30-2 (TDGS5 Chad 34-1 and LAZ5 Foreman 20-2).

Leslie and Lazarus Bros. also picked up reserve champion gilt.

Yorkshire

Parish said that during shows he tells what's on his mind, and was impressed with the deep quality of the sows in this and other classes. The drive for champion was extremely good in this class, he said, awarding grand champion to Thomas Arnold for the January gilt, LLA1 Star, bred to DFO Thunder 11-5, due Jan. 26, farrowed Jan. 18, 1991 from LLA9 Awesome 50-2 (LLA6 Awesome 34-4 and LLA6 Star 72-17) and LLA9 Star 43-17 (CDO6 Ultra 74-6 and LLA5 Star 64-5).

Reserve also went to Thomas Arnold.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $110 Million in Extra Payments

Robert B. McSparran
President

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past four years, we returned more than $110 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $31,500 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.5 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

Watch Out For Foot-Rot Disease In Sheep

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Sheep producers should keep a careful watch for symptoms of foot-rot disease in their flocks, said a sheep specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Foot-rot is a slow-developing, insidious infection that continues to occur in epidemic proportions in Pennsylvania," said Dr. Clair Engle, associate professor of animal science. "Left unchecked, it will destroy the profitability of any flock. But it's a problem producers don't have to live with. Foot-rot can be eradicated through effective treatment and strenuous flock management practices."

Sheep foot-rot is caused by an anaerobic bacterium, Fusiformis nodosus. "The bacterium gets between the sole of the foot and the hoof through a cut, bruise or a sharp object piercing the tissue," Engle said. "Once inside, it eats away at the lining between the foot and hoof, destroying and decaying the tissue."

The most obvious symptom of foot-rot is lameness. "Sheep can become lame for many reasons, which often causes producers to overlook foot-rot in its early stages," Engle said.

"Unfortunately, the longer foot-rot goes undiagnosed, the more difficult it is to treat. If you suspect foot-rot, you should have a veterinarian quickly make a positive identification."

A key secondary sign of foot-rot is a very pungent odor of rotting flesh. "If you detect that smell, take it very seriously," Engle said. "To verify whether the animal has foot-rot, trim its feet closely. You can see the inflammation and rotting tissue between the hoof and the foot."

If foot-rot is confirmed, the best treatment is a zinc sulfate foot bath. "Trim the feet of infected animals very closely," Engle said. "They may bleed profusely, but if you're going to treat the infection properly, the foot must be pared as close to the infection as possible."

Once the feet are trimmed, put the sheep in a foot bath containing 8 pounds of zinc sulfate to 10 gallons of water. The water should be at hoof level, 1.5 to 2 inches deep.

"The feet should be-soaked from five to 30 minutes, depending on the severity of the infection," Engle said. "Uninfected sheep can be run through a fresh foot bath as a preventative measure."

For extremely severe or persistent cases, consult a veterinarian for stronger treatments.

After your flock has been treated, take care not to re-expose them to the Fusiformis bacterium. "Be sure the pasture or area where your flock contracted the infection is free of the bacterium before you let treated sheep return," Engle said.

"Foot-rot is extremely contagious, but the bacterium that causes it can't live away from a host if the infected lot or pasture remains dry and exposed to sunlight for 10 to 15 days," he said. "Keep your flock in another pasture or pen until the bacterium has died out."

Engle cautions that wet manure or marshy pasture areas can harbor the organism for months. Once foot-rot has been eradicated from your farm, you can keep it away by carefully examining and treating all additions to your flock. "Quarantine any new animals for 30 days before introducing them to your flock," Engle said.

"Before adding any new sheep, trim their feet and soak them in a foot bath. If you see any sign of foot-rot in the isolation pen, evaluate the extent of the infection and decide whether to continue treatment or dispose of or return the animals to the seller."

Engle belives that a "foot-rot free" clause in all contractual sheep sale agreements would help make producers more conscious of the need to clean up this serious disease in Pennsylvania flocks.

Arnold's Yorkshire Names Supreme Champion

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRSIBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The efforts of 28-year-old Tom Arnold to breed superior swine were recognized Saturday as an estimated 450-pound January gilt he showed was named supreme champion among the breeding swine breeds competitions at the state Farm Show, in Harrisburg.

During the sale afterward, fellow Yorkshire breeder from Centre County, Charles Hall, purchased the gilt for $825.

Tom's supreme champion has a genetic backround that includes a sire that has been throwing nothing but offspring with large loin eye and low back fat. That's according to ultrasound tests that are done fairly regularly at the Arnold farm.

Arnold should be a familiar name for Yorkshire and Duroc swine breeders. Tom's dad is Leon Arnold, owner-operator of the Arnold farm. They showed the grand champion Yorkshire at the 1987 Farm Show and have lead a number of classes for years.

Locally, purchases from the Arnold stock have won numerous fair shows and other contests.

In fact, within the breed competition, the reserve grand champion was the littermate sister to the supreme champion.

Arnolds don't do any artificial insemination at their farm, located along Schaefferstown Road (Rt. 419) near Cornwall. Since they have all the boars that they use housed at the farm, they breed naturally.

"I bought it for the genetic backround," Hall said of his purchase. He runs a similar operation to what Arnold does. They will buy each others stock, from time to time.

This one may be a great buy for Hall as the champion carries the genetic combination for desirable meat considerations — a Sept. 20 ultrasound of the supreme champion showed that, at 250 pounds, she carried .59-inch of back fat and a 6.15-inch loin eye.

Leon said that the sire, "50-2," is the son of a 1986 champion and all of the litters out of him have had big lean loins. One of the 50-2's sons had a 8.39-inch loin eye with .79-inch back fat.

The Arnold Yorkshire won out in heavy competition.

The owner of the grand champion and reserve grand champion Berkshire swine was Dennis Grumbine, of Myerstown, a fellow Lebanonian.

In the Chester White competition, James Parlett to both the grand champion and reserve grand champion trophies. Parlett is from Airville, in York County.

In the Hampshire breed, Todd Bennecoff, of Kutztown, in Lehigh County, showed the grand champion, while an entry from Strawbridge and McCleary took reserve grand champion.

The Poland China breed grand and reserve grand champions were shown by Cheryl Bennecoff, also of Kutztown.

In the spotted swine division, Leslie and Lazarus Brothers, of Whitehall, Lehigh County, showed the grand and reserve grand champions.

Allebachs Take Second Supreme Title In Three Years

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRSIBURG (Dauphin Co.) — For the second time in three years, the Allebach family of Spring Mills, Centre County left the Farm Show complex with a banner proclaiming them the owners of the state's Supreme Champion Draft Horse — a Percheron mare.

The Allebach family consists of Gerald Allebach, 28, his wife Cindy, sister Monica, father Abraham, and mother Mary. They operate Windermere Farms, located east of State College.

Their supreme champion horse is Windermere's Joy, a daughter of the first supreme champion and what is fast becoming a very famous Percheron stallion, Black Home Duke.

When the first supreme title was offered by the Farm Show Commission in 1990, Allebach, then 26, showed Marissa Laet and took home the title. That year, the Allebachs went home with three grand champion breed titles in addition to the supreme title.

The draft horse competition is limited to the Belgian, Percheron, and Clydesdale breeds. There is a grand champion stallion and mare from each breed. To decide the supreme champion, the top two from each breed are brought into the center ring — breed against breed, gender against gender.

The Allebachs show Clydesdale and Percheron draft horse breeds. In 1990, in addition to showing the grand mare Percheron and the supreme champion, they also showed the grand champion Clydesdale mare and stallion.

This year, only two Allebach horses vied for the supreme title — Monica showed the grand champion Clydesdale stallion, a animal she bred herself, 2-year-old Johnny Boy, out of stud Doura Enterprise and mare Amabassadors Tina Marie.

For the Allebachs, the win Saturday represented another entry in the "Awards Won" catagory in the resume of their pride and joy Percheron stallion, "Blackhome Duke."

Blackhome has made things come home for the Allebachs, according to Gerald.

Several years ago, while on a horse-buying trip to Canada to in search of a mare Percheron, Abraham came across a black stallion which had the physical characteristics that the Allenbachs were looking for to bring into their herd.

Instead of returning home with another mare for the breeding program, home came Blackhome Duke, an all black stallion.

In the years since, Duke has sired some of the best Percherons and offered good cross lines.

The Allebachs, some of the first to enter the artificial insemination business with Percherons, are not marketing Duke's semen all across the United States, Canada, and are just entering the French market.

In addition to using Duke as a stud for the home farm Percherons, the Allebachs have also been crossing Duke with some of their Thorobred mares. The result has been a hunter-jumper horse that has received a lot of interest. Monica uses one to compete in jumping.

The Allebachs 450-acre farm was once a dairy operation, but "dairy cows don't make any money," Gerald said. "People didn't believe me, but after a couple years, I said, 'the horses are supporting those cows.' It was true."

Eventually, the herd of grade and registered Holsteins were sold.

Allebach said that as he looked at his future on the farm as a dairy operation, he decided that the only thing he could do was to work off the farm in order to keep it, because the cows would not pay for it.

The sale and working with breeding draft horses started before Gerald, but the farm has become a horse breeding farm.

On the side, Gerald does breed, raise and train and run coondogs, but only non-competitively.

The Windermere farm is a shared venture, and Gerald Allebach does work off the farm, managing automobile sales, but the horses are very important to paying for the farm and keeping the land productive.

The purchase of Duke has helped that greatly. He has been named the premier sire in the United States for the third straight year.

Also competing for the title of the supreme champion were the grand champion Clydesdale mare, shown by Debra Rhoad, of Grantville, Dauphin County; the Percheron stallion, shown by Bill and Peggy Shainline, of Oxford, in Chester County; a Belgian stallion shown by Jerry and Shirley Ray, of Shelocta, Indiana County; and a Belgian mare shown by Lewis and Gail Biddle and family of Boalsburg, also in Centre County.

Suffolk Ewe Lamb Becomes Champion Meat Breeds

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Her first-ever Farm Show champion came as quite a surprise to Amy Clair, 17, from State College.

Amy and her family of registered Suffolk breeders Lyn-Lee Farms, Centre Co., were honored with the champion of the sheep meat breeds on Monday at the Farm Show.

Amy showed off the stately "Silhouette" Suffolk ewe lamb, competing against the champions of five other breeds for the supreme champion title. Amy has been showing sheep for nine years, ever since she joined the Centre County 4-H Club, and helps the 500-acre Lyn-Lee Farms manage 100 sheep, including 65 registered Suffolk and 35 Katahdins.

Amy's mother, Sue, says it was "right breeding" that garnered Amy the championship. Amy, a senior at State College High School, has shown locally at the Grange Fair.

Following is a list of show placings.

Personal Reflections On Biking In Southwestern Pennsylvania

Safety equipment is necessary for any biker. Addie Hiebert models a 1991 Christmas present: a biking helmet which is adjustable to accommodate growth. Photo by David Hiebert.

Hills are a fact of life if you ride in Southwestern Pennsylvania. A single speed bike will reduce you to walking up many of the hills, and unable to keep up on the downhill side. Addie Hiebert enjoys the quiet, semi-urban area near Scottdale, Pennsylvania. Photo by David Hiebert.

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co. Correspondent

SCOTTDALE (Westmoreland Co.) — A father and son symbolically dip in the Pacific Ocean and then set off for Boston.

After selling a million units in a year, a book retailer sets out from northern Indiana with his sights on central Virginia.

A 65-year-old man and his son-in-law start off one misty morning and spend 11 hours on the road before reaching their destination only a hundred miles away. They rest through the night, then retrace their route, putting in more than eight hours to return to their point of origin.

An unemployed Ohio man logs more than 10,000 miles on the road in less than a year.

A couple ramble along an abandoned railroad, a winding river splashes nearby and autumn colors crunch beneath them.

What do I have in common with all these people? I am a recreational biker. I go out for the fun of being together with my family. I enjoy the firsthand experience of the changing weather and seasons. I like the slower pace which doesn't burn up fossil fuels or pound my neighbors eardrums.

Fun as a family

The major reason I began biking was to have an activity that I could do with others in my family. As a family, we take our bikes on camping trips and take special trips to group biking events.

Since it is a family-based activity, we keep our equipment simple. My main gear is a 12-speed touring bike with derailleurs. The bike came equipped with a water bottle. I added toe clips to the pedals for more power on the hills. As my son James and I began taking longer rides together, we bought him a 15-speed mountain bike as a birthday present. His mountain bike has wider tires and a lower gear ratio than my touring bike.

Since purchasing the bicycle, we have added several items to our equipment list: a carrying rack for two bikes, palm padded biking gloves, and safety helmets for everyone.

According to the World Book encyclopedia, the Consumer Product Safety Commission requires that all bicycles sold in the United States meet certain safety standards. Our bicycles came equipped with reflectors on the pedals and wheels, plus ones on the front and back. If your used bike doesn't have this equipment, it should be repaired before you head out on the road.

We also ride with helmets whenever we will be out on public roads. Though we've never had a serious accident, the helmet reminds us to be careful.

Observations from the road

Going slower and closer to the road allows me to see things that other travelers might not pick up. One impression, from the biker's viewpoint, is that many car drivers are more violent than they might realize. Road kills include robins, raccoons, and rabbits. The number of dead animals and birds is especially astounding in spring. One question that haunts me as big vehicles brush past: "Will I be part of the next layer on the road pizza?"

A second realiza' n comes when your muscles are providing all the power to make you go: Pennsylvania has lots

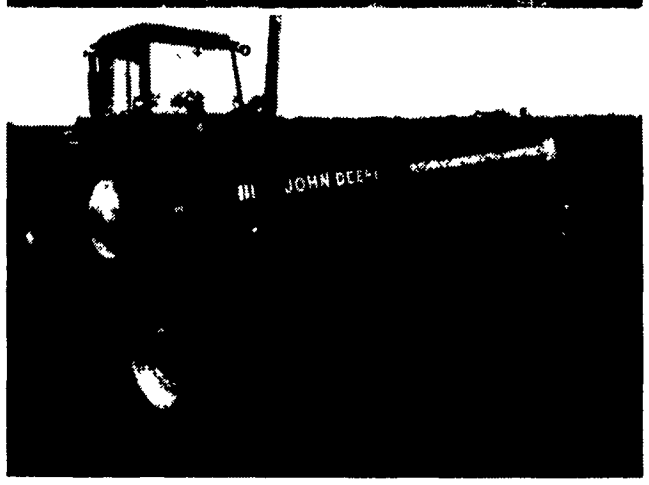
Pressure any field into bigger yields

The John Deere 750 No-Till Drill lets you apply as much as 450 pounds of down-pressure to each disk opener. You can cut through the toughest sod and residue. And you'll gain excellent seeding accuracy because each disk opener has a depth gauge wheel for outstanding depth control, even in dips and rolling fields. Choose a 10- or 15-foot model. Combination seed/fertilizer models, too.



The John Deere 450 End-Wheel Drill features adjustable down-pressure for drilling in minimum-till conditions, 2.8 bushel/foot grain capacity for efficient planting, and left-side adjustments for easy operation. Stop by and set up an 8- to 13-foot 450 Drill to fit your fields.

Penn State Dairy Products Judging Team Wins

Though it is technically against the law, riding on the sidewalk in some urban areas makes sense when the foot traffic is light and the car traffic is heavy. Addie Hiebert takes advantage of mild winter weather on a New Year's Day ride. Photo by David Hiebert.

Reflections On Biking

of hills. I might be exhilarated by the wind rushing by on the quick downhill portions of a route, but it can be a grind getting to the top.

The Ohiopyle bike trail

The demise of the railroads as a major transportation force has left the United States with a pre-engineered opportunity. Converting the former railroad beds to hiking and biking trails could give us a coast to coast network suitable for recreation and low cost transportation. One such stretch of abandoned railroad bed that runs through the Ohiopyle State Park in Fayette County, has been converted to a biking and hiking trail. It begins in Confluence on the border of Somerset and Fayette counties and runs (almost constantly within sight of the Youghiogheny River) to a point seven miles below Ohiopyle. The route is scheduled to be completed to Connellsville for use in the summer of 1992. In the National Rails to Trails plan, this route will be part of the Washington D.C. to Cumberland, Maryland, to Pittsburgh route.

A variety of rental equipment is available near this beautiful, almost level, biking trail. Single speed, or multi-speed bikes, pullcarts for your children too young to keep up, and tandem bikes for two are available from Memorial Day to Thanksgiving.

We have found a variety of pleasing sights and sounds on this trail, which has been preserved in a natural condition. It is part of the wild and scenic rivers protected area. Large soaring hawks, deer running so close we could almost touch them, and snakes are representative of the wildlife we have seen. In recent years, we have been displeased with some litter we have encountered.

The well-maintained trail offers numerous benches for resting and watching nature. From these spots, we have enjoyed snacks while watching squirrels searching for theirs.

We have found heavy weekend traffic on this trail. Our preference is to make the visit during the week. Mondays are suitably quiet, since some rental sites are closed in the beginning of the week.

The changing seasons

Biking is an enjoyable way to observe the changing seasons. I have observed spring bursting with energy; sultry, steamy summer; brilliant fall foliage; and windy winters. All of the seasons are felt more deeply when you see, feel, and hear the differences.

Events last year

During the 1991 year, we participated in two sponsored biking events: The Poker Ride for Fun near Greensburg in Westmoreland County, and Sternwheeler Regatta Bicycle Tour near Charleston in Kanawha and Jackson counties of West Virginia. For both events, we paid an entry fee and received tee shirts as mementos of the event. Both events provided snacks and drink during the ride. Both events had provisions for long, medium, and short routes. We chose the shortest routes on each occasion: 20 miles in the Poker Ride, 32 miles in the Sternwheeler.

The third annual Poker Ride came on May 4, early in the spring. The ride included about 500 participants, who began and ended their jaunt at Twin Lakes Park. The route was described officially as "somewhat hilly" and participants were warned of "heavy traffic" on parts of the route. As a first time participant, I enjoyed the views of farm land, fresh air and conversation with other riders. For further information about the 1992 Poker Ride for Fun call or write Comprehensive Substance Abuse Unit, Miller Square, 105 W. 4th, Greensburg, PA 15610, phone (412) 832-5880.

With the experience of 11 tours under their helmets, the Mountain State Wheelers were well prepared for the 12th annual Sternwheeler tour. The course they had established included some hills, but overall the course was more gentle than the Poker Ride. For further information about this event write to Mountain State Wheelers, P.O.Box 8161, South Charleston, W.Va. 25303.

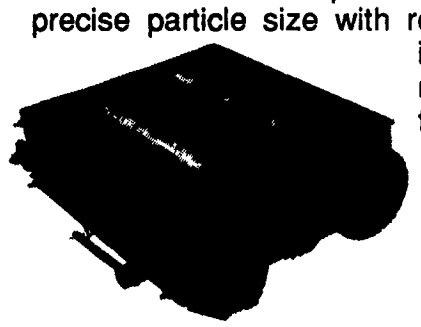
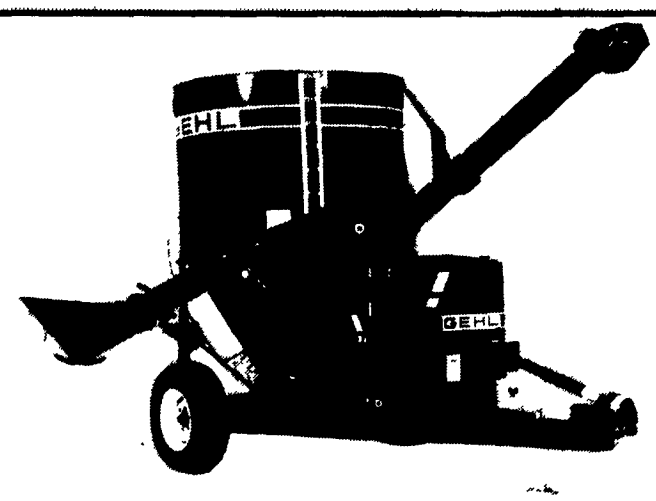
GEHL®

Roller Mixer
The Industry Leader

We've combined the proven features and advantages of our Mix-All with a commercial grade roller mill to give you the best portable roller mill feed maker available today.

A Gehl roller mill produces a coarse feed of precise particle size with reduced dust and "flour" in the feed. That means optimum gain for your livestock.





A heavy-duty, commercial grade roller mill features deep grooved rolls that uniformly reduce grain to a pre-determined particle size for maximum nutritional value.

Gehl Mix-All®: the "can do" machine!

On-farm feedmaking has never been better. Or more worry-free. In fact, Gehl Mix-All® portable grinder-mixers are truly "can do" machines. Because they fit into any feedmaking operation; uniformly grind and mix ingredients for a higher quality feed; and save work and time with efficient hydraulics. Choice of 100 or 135 bu. capacity models.

Come in today and see what a Mix-All® "can do" for you!

Gehl TMR Mixer Feeders Are #1

Nothing can maximize the return on investment in your dairy or beef feeding operation like a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system. And nothing makes TMR work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why:

- Better Mixing Action - Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy Efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Six Sizes - From 150 to 500 cubic feet mixing capacities.
- Three Styles - Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation.

Foraging Around

By Dr. John E. Baylor
Forage Specialist (Retired)
Penn State University

WHAT'S NEW IN FORAGE GRASSES?

If you attended the PFGC sponsored Forage Conference last November you heard Dr. G. A. Jung of the USDA Pasture Research Lab discuss research at Penn State on new forage grasses. In today's column I'd like to follow up on several of Dr. Jung's comments.

But first let's take a brief look at forage grasses in general and their importance to Northeastern agriculture.

In fact, grasses are extremely important to us. On a world-wide basis grasses are included in nearly three-fourths of the cultivated forage cropland. And they make up a major portion of the native grassland. In the U.S. alone there are some 1,500 grass species. They're extremely important as food crops, and are used extensively for pasture, hay, silage, soil conservation, turf and wildlife.

Cool Season Grasses

Most perennial grasses grown for forage in the Northeast are classified as cool season grasses, i.e. they require a cool, moist climate for optimum growth. As a group they are not extremely drought or heat tolerant. And unless our summers are cool and moist these grasses don't normally produce well during the months of July and August. Timothy, orchardgrass, bromegrass, bluegrass, and the ryegrasses are among the most common of our cool season species.

Warm Season Grasses

But during the past decade warm season grasses have gotten more attention in the Northeast. These grasses, including switchgrass and the bluestems are not new to the Northeast. But until recently their potential has not been appreciated.

First of all, they're known to be productive in July and August--at a time when cool season grasses are normally nonproductive. And recent studies have verified that, unlike earlier impressions, these grasses are highly productive, high in dry matter digestibility and intake at the vegetative growth stages, and highly efficient users of water.

I'll take a more critical look at the warm season grasses in a later column.

New Research at Penn State

But back to Dr. Jung's report. "Forage grasses," Jerry told us, "are currently receiving lots of attention at Penn State and the Pasture Lab." "In fact," he said, "collectively this research program is one of the largest programs in the U.S. and embraces a wide range of agronomic as well as feeding/grazing trials." This should be good news to forage-livestock producers in this area.

Earlier studies on grasses at Penn State proved the value, when properly managed, of tetraploid perennial ryegrasses and low alkaloid reed canarygrass varieties. Newer varieties of both species are now widely used throughout the region.

One of the most recent grasses to be identified by Dr. Jung as having potential in our area is Matua prairie grass, a cool season bromegrass species developed in New Zealand. Research on Matua was started at Penn State in 1986, according to Jung, because it appeared to have unusual growth and quality characteristics. And while findings to date are not conclusive, Jerry's observations are that: (1) Matua produces excellent fall growth and stays green going into winter, (2) it has good drought tolerance, and (3) it is highly palatable to both dairy cows and sheep. As of now its disease tolerance has not been fully assessed, but it has shown under some conditions heavy infections of powdery mildew.

Barcell tall fescue is another grass that has been identified in Penn State grazing trials as having potential. And while the final verdict is still out, according to Penn State agronomist Dr. Steve Fales, studies now underway do indicate that Barcell is high yielding and considerably more acceptable to cattle than other tall fescue varieties.

Over the years forage grasses have not received much attention by breeders and other research workers. Studies at Penn State suggest this may have changed.

FmHA Names New Director

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— D. Eugene Gayman, state director for the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) in Pennsylvania, has selected Don A. Delp as the new district director in Chambersburg, succeeding Murray Shaw, who retired in September 1991.

"Don has over 20 years of service with FmHA, having served as county supervisor in Adams and York counties, farm program specialist, and chief, community and business programs in the Harrisburg state office," Gayman said.

The Chambersburg District covers a 10-county area in south-central Pennsylvania (from Lancaster to Bedford).

Delp's new responsibilities will be to supervise nine FmHA offices as they carry out FmHA's various loan programs.

FmHA is able to extend credit to eligible farmers; finance the purchase of rural residences; finance sewer and water projects, fire, and rescue-related equipment; and finance many other rural development purposes.

Don grew up on a farm in Montgomery County, and graduated from Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture with a B.S. degree in agronomy.

Hatfield Wins Agribusiness Award, Casey Opens Show

HARRISBURG — A Montgomery County firm that has been producing quality pork products for nearly a century was honored with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's 1992 Agribusiness Award.

Clair W. (Butch) Clemens, president of Hatfield Quality Meats, Inc. received the award from Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff during the annual Farm Show Dinner Saturday night in Harrisburg.

"Hatfield Quality Meats is committed to Pennsylvania agriculture," according to Secretary Wolff. "They support the local farm economy while promoting our number one industry. Hatfield is also leading the way in developing environmental policy for the food industry.

"Their product line includes more than 600 fresh, cooked and smoked meat products. But more important than quantity is the quality and product consistency that Hatfield customers have come to know and count on," he said.

"The name Hatfield goes hand in hand with the Pennsylvania Farm Show," Wolff said. "We have frequently seen Mr. Clemens at the Junior Livestock Sale, buying champions, reserve champions and other market hogs. His support of our young Farm Show exhibitors is commendable and we are proud to honor Hatfield Quality Meats with our Agribusiness Award this year."

The tradition of quality at Hatfield Quality Meats began in 1895 on a small country farm when John C. Clemens and his family began producing pork products for the nearly Philadelphia market. They later established the Pleasant Valley Packing Company and when a fire ravaged that facility in 1946, the Clemens brothers purchased a nearby plant in Hatfield Township. Along with the new facility came a new name - Hatfield Quality Meats.

Hatfield Quality Meats soon became a regional manufacturer of both fresh and processed pork products. After nearly a century in business, the same sense of family pride continues in the company, evidenced by the 26 family members who work there.

The agribusiness award was presented to Clair Clemens, president, Hatfield Quality Meats, Inc., by Boyd Wolff, Pennsylvania ag secretary, at the Farm Show Dinner last Saturday evening.

Th Sunday Farm Show crowd watches as Gov. Casey and his party are seated in the wagon to be ushered into the large arena for the ceremonies.

Today, Hatfield Quality Meats plays an integral part in the state's economy with 1,100 employees. Their market area encompasses 14 states, from Maine to Florida, but most of its advertising is directed at the area between Washington, New York and Philadelphia.

The company purchases about 700,000 hogs directly from Pennsylvania farmers and 10,000 hogs each year from Pennsylvania livestock markets. They also raise feeder pigs on two of their own farms and supply feed mills, pharmaceutical companies and medical facilities with hog by-products.

Hatfield also purchases hogs from local agricultural fairs. During the past year alone, their buyers attended 50 county fairs and purchased more than 1,000 hogs. Hatfield is also quite visible at other events like the Keystone International Livestock Exposition and Pork Congress, supporting 4-H and FFA programs all along the way.

At the large arena on Sunday, Gov. Robert P. Casey opened the 76th annual Pennsylvania Farm Show on Sunday by announcing the release of nearly $2 million in capital budget funds for additional improvements to the Farm Show complex.

The governor said $1.43 million would be released to replace flooring in the main exhibition area with reinforced concrete and a non-skid surface. An additional $556,000 will be freed to improve and resurface parking areas around the Farm Show building.

"This will bring the total amount we've spent on improvements here to more than $10 million," Gov. Casey said.

"These are important improvements because this building is a monument to Pennsylvania's hard-working farm families. This is where we showcase the accomplishments of our number one industry."

Gov. Casey announced the capital budget funding during the Governor's Day Ceremony at the Farm Show. His action permits the Department of General Services to solicit bids for design of the projects.

The state capital budget is the state's system for funding construction and improvements of public buildings through the sale of government bonds.

Other improvements previously authorized by Gov. Casey included a new $3 million roof to the Farm Show building and a $3.3 million livestock exhibition hall.

In his annual Farm Show address, Gov. Casey promoted the state's farmland preservation program, efforts to find new markets for Pennsylvania agriculture products and work in disposing of unwanted and potentially dangerous pesticides.

"We have a great deal to be proud of here in Pennsylvania, but all our accomplishments resulted from teamwork," Gov. Casey said. "We've accomplished much because you've worked with us and supported our efforts. It's been a pleasure to work with Pennsylvania's farmers, and I look forward to more accomplishments in the upcoming years."

Prior to his remarks, the governor toured the 1992 Farm Show. During the tour, he inspected the framework of the new Livestock Exhibition Hall that will add 82,000 square feet of exhibit space to the Farm Show complex.

Seminar Teaches Corn Producer Environment Issues

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Ed Snook, a corn producer from Jersey Shore, Pa., was one of 22 agricultural leaders to successfully complete a three-day Agricultural Issues Management (AIM) Seminar held here.

Sponsored by the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA), the AIM Seminar's purpose is to provide a select group of farmers from around the nation with factual information on the important issues facing agriculture, plus intensive training in improving communications skills. Snook was selected to represent Pennsylvania corn growers.

Issues centered around food safety and groundwater quality and the measures being taken by farmers, agricultural suppliers, and the food industry to maintain the quality of the environment and the nation's ample supply of wholesome and nutritious food.

Participants heard presentations from both proponents and critics of current agricultural practices. The growers were told how they can respond to the critics and reassure the public that our food supply is the safest and best in history, and that farmers are playing a leading role in ensuring environmental quality.

Ed Snook, left, a corn grower from Jersey Shore, Pa., accepts a certificate of achievement for successfully completing the Agricultural Issues Management (AIM) Seminar sponsored by the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA). Presenting the certificate is Rich Watts, NCGA corporate relations manager, St. Louis.

Farm Leaders Follow No-Till Bandwagon

WILMINGTON, Del. — Corn and soybean growers attending a recent DuPont leadership conference said environmental issues top their list of agricultural concerns. The majority indicated they already have implemented no-till and other soil conservation measures.

More than 85 percent of those surveyed are already no-tilling or plan to adopt the soil-saving practice in the near future. Most are already using no-till practices on their farms. Their belief in no-till was reinforced by Bill Richards, U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) chief, who addressed the attendees.

"My message to farmers everywhere is that, whenever possible, we need to set aside the plow and make crop residue management a part of our heritage," Richards said. "We must take the soil conservation compliance deadline seriously, or pay the price in the next Farm Bill."

As winners of the DuPont/ASA Young Leaders and DuPont/NCGA Award of Excellence progams, 49 growers from 29 states and Canada were invited to DuPont headquarters in Wilmington, Del, for three days of leadership training. The leader from Pennsylvania is Steve Mellott of Mercersburg.

During roundtable discussions of key agricultural issues, seven of the eight groups chose the environment as their topic. The leaders agreed that the public is unaware of the many environmental programs that farmers are implementing, such as soil and water conservation techniques.

"We need more communication to inform the public that we are as concerned about the environment as they are," said one grower. "Maybe we need to adopt a new title for farmers — 'environmental engineers.'"

Richards, who has farmed in Ohio for 35 years, said he adopted conservation tillage years ago as a cost-cutting measure, and later discovered its soil-savings benefits. Today, as SCS chief, Richards still believes economics should dictate.

"Economics, first and foremost, has to be the first measure of any crop residue management program," Richards told the farm leaders.

Pfizer Therapy Approach Combats Swine Disease

NEW YORK, N.Y. — It typically begins with sudden death — several lifeless pigs with purple ears, tails, underbellies, and extremities. Many of the surviving animals in the herd are found to be suffering from pneumonia. They are short of breath, feverish and lethargic. If untreated for several days, they may develop watery yellow feces.

Almost always, these episodes take place after a period of stress such as shipment or a change in the environment.

The diagnosis: Salmonella choleraesuis. Unlike other forms of Salmonellosis, which merely cause diarrhea, S. choleraesuis moves from the intestine into the bloodstream, rapidly attacking vital organs. Those pigs that survive are the chief source of recontamination through fecal shedding. The disease is on the increase, with outbreaks increasing significantly over the last decade. It is also unpredictable, difficult to diagnose and economically devastating to swine producers.

The disease must be treated swiftly and effectively to control an existing outbreak and prevent future occurrences by reducing the magnitude and duration of fecal shedding. The most common mistake in treating this disease is confusing it with another Salmonella strain — S. typhimurium - which is solely an enteric, or intestinal, infection that produces a very different, less threatening type of illness.

Pfizer Animal Health has developed a new therapy approach for treating S. choleraesuis — this often-misunderstood pathogen. It involves administering Mecadox®, an antibacterial compound, and Terramycin-343® Soluble Powder, a concentrated, water-soluble oxytetracycline product. This approach is necessary because enteric and systemic antimicrobial activity is required to control and treat this deadly disease.

"Mecadox is active in the intestinal tract, prevents systemic dispersal and reduces shedding of S. choleraesuis in the environment," said Pfizer technical service veterinarian Dreyfus L. Froe. "Treatment also requires antimicrobial activity throughout the system, not only in the gut."

That is where Terramycin-343 comes in. It is a widely dispersed antibiotic, which attacks the systemic infection. Not only is it effective in the intestinal tract, it is also readily absorbed and systemically distributed throughout the body.

The effectiveness of this therapy was demonstrated in a recent on-farm clinical experiment. Sixty-six young pigs, weighing an average of 33 pounds, were selected from a commercial herd with a history of Salmonella problems caused by S. choleraesuis. A clinical disease outbreak was in progress at the time the pigs were selected for the experiment. The pigs were broken into four treatment groups: one was given non-medicated controls; the second was treated with Mecadox alone; the third used Mecadox plus Amifur®; and the fourth was treated with Mecadox plus Terramycin-343 Soluble Powder.

The results showed that Mecadox alone controlled the naturally occurring Salmonellosis outbreak. However, the Mecadox/Terramycin-343 group exhibited superior performance compared to the other medicated groups, with no mortality or chronic morbidity. The addition of Amifur (nitrofurazone, recently withdrawn from the market by the FDA) did not improve disease control as compared to the use of Mecadox® alone. Three of the 18 pigs in the control group died and four of the remaining animals were chronically affected. The degree of illness in the non-medicated pigs was reflected in extremely poor performance.

The absence of chronic illness in the Mecadox-treated groups suggests the compound was successful in clearing the pathogen from the gut. In addition, the experiment results demonstrate the efficacy of the enteric/systemic treatment approach using Mecadox and Terramycin-343®.

This logical approcah to S. choleraesuis control provides producers with the needed tools to ensure that a disease outbreak does not sabotage production efficiency or profit.

Burnside Offers German Barns Lectures

BETHLEHEM (Lehigh Co.)— Burnside Plantation recently released a schedule of three lectures focusing on the origin, stone masonry, and timber framing of the Pennsylvania German barn.

Set for a Sunday in January, February and March, the lectures are in preparation for Burnside's Barn Raising Festival, which will be held May 16-17.

Beginning the series is Robert Ensminger, author of "The Pennsylvania Barn," which will be published this year by the Johns Hopkins University Press. On January 19, his slide presentation will show the excitement of his discovery that the Pennsylvania German barn originated in Switzerland. It is titled, "The Origin of the Pennsylvania German Barn."

Ensminger has conducted seminal research on the origin of the Pennsylvania German barn. Prior to his studies, it was argued that this barn was an American creation.

He has a degree in general science from West Chester University, a masters in education from Lehigh University, and a masters in geography from Rutgers University, NJ.

He has taught public school for 17 years and was a professor of geography at Kutztown University for 16 years.

Other scheduled lectures include Ian Cramb's "Stone Masonry in Time and Space," February 16, and Marcus Brandt's "Timber Framing and the Construction of Pennsylvania German Barns," March 15.

Each lecture will begin at 2 p.m. in the Christian Education Building auditorium of the Central Moravian Church, off New Street.

To help defray the building rental fees, lectures will cost $3 per person for the general public and $2 per person for Burnside members.

Anyone interested in volunteering to help at the Barn Raising Festival will have the opportunity to sign up before and after the lectures. Training will be provided to those helping to raise the barns.

For more information, call Burnside at (215) 868-5044.

IMMUNOCOMPETENCE ESSENTIAL FOR POULTRY HEALTH

David C. Kradel
MS, MPH, DVM
Dept. of Veterinary Science

Cause Of Disease Complex

Keeping poultry flocks productive and healthy is a difficult job. This is because of the many factors that can result in reduced production and/or disease.

These factors, with several factors often interacting to produce a problem, include genetics, nutritional deficiencies or imbalances, environmental influences (ventilation, temperature, moisture, density, housing, etc.), vaccination status, exposure to infectious disease agents (bacteria, viruses, parasites, etc.) and the ability of the birds immune system to respond to infectious disease agents.

Immunocompetence Necessary

A bird whose immune system can respond normally to infectious disease agents (and vaccines) is called immunocompetent. Interference with the development of normal immunocompetency is an important predisposing cause to some common infectious disease problems such as colibacillosis (E. COLI infections). Some of the things that may cause a lack of normal immunocompetence include stress, mold toxins (mycotoxins), nutrient deficiencies and some viruses.

IBD Virus Problem

Probably the most important cause of abnormal immunocompetence is prior infection with the virus that causes infectious bursal disease (IBD).

In young chickens, this virus can destroy the organ of the body (bursa) necessary to produce the cells (lymphocytes) required in the development of immunocompetence.

Because the virus of IBD is commonly present in the environments of chickens, protection against the virus is achieved by vaccination. Breeder hens are vaccinated several times against IBD so that they can pass on a high level of protection to their chicks via egg yolk antibody. This yolk-derived antibody will gradually disappear from the chick but while present (approximately 2-3 weeks) will provide protection against the IBD virus.

When young chicks containing this breeder hen derived antibody are exposed to the IBD virus, they are able to then resist the infection, develop their own immunity to IBD, and subsequently become immunocompetent chickens. Additional IBD vaccinations are often done as the birds become older to assure resistance against the IBD virus.

If adequate protection against the IBD virus is not achieved, the bird will not be immunocompetent and will be susceptible to various infectious disease agents. Such chickens may also respond poorly to vaccination against other diseases. A good IBD vaccination program in breeders and commercial birds is a most essential factor in establishing immunocompetence and subsequent resistance against infectious diseases.

Class Champion One Year, Supreme The Next

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A nearly forgotten class champion sometimes plays the role of Cinderella and turns into a year-after supreme champion.

Such is the case when the March 1990 junior yearling heifer, Rains Lady Patches DP2, born March 18 (S: Brost Dan Patch, D: Lady Evelyn 300T of GU), bred and owned by Dale Rains, Mercer, donned the champion slippers to be named supreme champion female on Monday at the Farm Show.

The heifer was a mere class champion last year. And this year, it was up against many others for the grand female competition. But it took the efforts of Rains and his breeding and feeding programs, together with constant animal care, he said, to garner a champion.

"The mother would have been a class winner at the state shows and we've had maternal sisters to her that have won the Ohio Expo two years in a row," said Rains.

Rains has been showing for 23 years, and has exhibited at the Farm Show for 16 years. He operates a cow/calf operation with 35 brood cows in Mercer.

Rains also picked up a tie with Rocky Forge Farms for premier Angus exhibitor and won premier breeder.

This year, for the first time, the open beef show also included a supreme champion bull, which went to Keith and Lynda Rooker exhibiting for Hero Cattle Co. out of Uniontown, Fayette County. The grand champion Polled Hereford bull is a March 1991 early spring bull calf, KLR BW Outrage (S: GK Turning Point X53, D: KLR IDa Clare 221).

Angus supreme bull champion was awarded to Kohr Farms. The Charolais grand champion female was awarded to Jesse Haas. Haas also won the grand champion Charolais bull and swept the premier exhibitor and breeder classes. Grand champion heifer of the Polled Hereford class went to Spring Bottom Farm, and premier exhibitor and breeder awards went to Salunga Acres.

Simmental grand champion heifer was awarded to Harvest Plantation, and grand champion bull went to Sarah Messick. The premier Simmental exhibitor award went to Sarah Messick and the premier breeder to Harvest Plantation.

In the Limousin class, grand champion heifer went to Quail Run Farm and the grand bull went to Line Limousin. The premier exhibitor award went to Quail Run Farm and the premier breeder was awarded to the Mohser Family.

Judges for the show were Tom Reedy, Mattoon, Ill., for the Angus and Simmental classes, and Charles Boyd, Mayes Lick, Ky., for the Charolais, Polled Hereford, and Limousin classes. In all, there were approximately 153 exhibitors.

Following is a list of show placings.

National Dairy Board Pledges Better Communication

ARLINGTON, VA — "The National Dairy Board has not done a good job of communicating to farmers, and we are determined to do better. With the nation's economy in a recession and milk prices down, it is a difficult time to be in the dairy industry. Farmers have a right and obligation to themselves to question how their money is being spent," said Lester Evans, Chairman of the National Dairy Board in response to the current petition drive calling for a referendum of the National Dairy Board.

"Our message to all dairy farmers is that we want to talk to them. We've been working harder in the last few months to reach out, and explain how their money is being spent," Evans said, noting that the 36 members of the National Dairy Board have held and participated in several meetings with dairy farmers around the country in the last four months alone.

This intensified effort to reach greater numbers of farmers will continue Evans said. National Dairy Board members attended the National Farmers' Union meeting at the end of December and will participate in the regional meetings of the Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board in January and February.

Wisconsin board member, Victoria Coughlin, said that representatives of the National Dairy Board "benefit from the input of dairy farmers. We also appreciate a chance to tell our story to those who will listen.

"In Wisconsin, we've been accused of selling BST, but we're not. What we have done is taken steps to protect milk's wholesome, pure image in the event BST is introduced. There are several food safety issues with potential for damaging milk's image. BST is just one of those," Coughlin explained.

John Malcheski, NDB member from Wisconsin, explained, "The National Dairy Board has worked closely with leaders of other milk promotion groups for the past year and a half to find ways to get more bang for our combined resources. The results, ranging from increased sales of ice cream to the creation of a centralized market research data bank, have been extraordinary.

"We don't have the perfect coordination solution, yet, but what we're doing is working. We'll keep searching for more and better ways to increase the power of our dollars," Malcheski said.

"The bottom line is that promotion is working," said Evans. "The dime and the nickel have had a positive impact on the industry's economic situation. Times are tough right now for dairy farmers. Without promotion, they could be a lot worse."

Evans, Coughlin and Malcheski are among the 36 board members who donate the equivalent of three days a month or more to direct National Dairy Board programs. According to the congressionally-mandated selection process, board members are nominated by local and state dairy organizations and appointed by the United States Secretary of Agriculture. Board members are reimbursed for travel expenses but receive no salary per diem.

A STRATEGIC DECISION — HOW MANY COWS PER ACRE?

W. J. Parker, S. L. Fales, L. D. Muller
Penn State University

The use of pastures on a dairy farm requires both strategic and tactical decisions.

Strategic decisions are usually made infrequently but have a major impact on the type of farming system that is put in place. The purchase of land, choice of herd size, type of ration feeding system, and selection of machinery are examples of strategic decisions.

Tactical decisions, on the other hand, involve adjustments to the strategic decisions to ensure that production, personal, and financial performance targets are met, and are usually made more frequently than strategic decisions. Examples of tactical decisions include modifying the herd ration, determining which cows to cull and deciding what day to plant corn.

Tactical decisions often involve smaller items, but collectively these decisions have a huge impact on the success of the farming business. In previous articles, we have discussed some techniques that will help you to improve tactical decisions (e.g. calculating the number of days grazing per paddock and monitoring pasture cover through time. In this article, we want to discuss a critical strategic decision for pastures — "What stocking rate should be adopted?"

Stocking rate, or the number of animals per unit area of pasture (usually expressed as cows per acre), has a large impact on the amount of pasture available per animal. It is important to distinguish between the average stocking rate for the entire grazing season and the total pasture acreage, and the stocking rate at an individual grazing of a pasture.

The season average stocking rate for 100 cows on 50 acres is 2 cows per acre, but at an individual grazing of a 5 acre pasture the 100 cows will be stocked at 20 cows/acre. The season average reflects strategic decisions (for example, herd size and the area of pasture) while the paddock stocking rate is a tactical decision (that is, it will change frequently during the season to ensure that herd production targets are met).

The effect of stocking rate on the amount of pasture available per cow can be quickly seen in the following table:

Pasture area (acres)	Pasture production (lb DM/acre)	Milking cows	Stocking rate (cow/acre)	Pasture per cow (lb DM/cow)
50	6000	25	0.5	12000
50	6000	50	1.0	6000
50	6000	75	1.5	400

The numbers in the table are a simplification of what happens in practice, because stocking rate also affects the type of pasture and the utilization of pasture grown. Usually, in Pennsylvania, a mainly orchard grass sward will exist at a low to medium stocking rate, but under high stock rates (and repeated heavy grazings), a bluegrass dominant sward will develop.

Similarly, under high stocking rates, more of the herbage grown is consumed by the cows (i.e. the utilization of herbage is greater) than under a low stocking rate. Excessively high stocking rates may result in cows being underfed and necessitating the need for more supplemental feeding, while excessively low stocking rates result in pasture wastage or underutilization (as shown in the table).

Both extremes are unlikely to realize the full economic benefits of grazing. This can be seen in the schematic diagram showing the effects of stocking rate on cows, fed a mainly pasture diet, in terms of milk production. Maximum milk production is achieved at a "medium" stocking rate.

How can you determine whether the stocking rate on your farm is at the right level? This is difficult to answer because of the big differences that may occur in herbage production between and within years (compare the 1990 and 1991 seasons for example), but the following may help:

- A weed-infested, open pasture may be indicative of a stocking rate which is too low.
- The development of a bluegrass pasture where orchard grass was previously dominant may indicate that stocking rate is on the high side. A complete transition to a bluegrass sward may be undesirable because of reduced midsummer production compared with orchard grass.
- A consistently low level of milk production when cows are grazing may reflect underfeeding because the stocking rate is too high. Usually this will be associated with heavy grazing pressures (that is, low post-grazing pasture heights).
- A formal evaluation of herbage growth and herd feed requirements using a feed budget will provide a good indication of the "ideal" stocking rate. The results of the feed budget should be interpreted in relation to the information obtained for the first and third items listed here, and a financial budget. The use of feed budgets for strategic planning will be discussed in a future article.

In New Zealand, where grazed pasture is almost the sole diet of lactating cows, the choice of stocking rate is one of the most important strategic decisions that a dairyman makes. Stocking rate is also of critical importance to Pennsylvania dairy farmers who are using pastures, because of the reasons discussed in this article, and is one of the important variable being studied in the Penn State dairy grazing research program.

Pa. Representatives Attend Beef Board Meeting

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Two Pennsylvania Representatives to the Beef Board, Ralph McGregor, a dairyman from East Berlin, and Ralph Dotterer, a cattle feeder from Mill Hall, attended the Board's winter meeting here to set the direction for 1992 checkoff activities.

The board members, as part of their business meetings, revised the Beef Board long-range plan. The long-range plan now incorporates a statement of ten marketing imperatives which guide checkoff programs. In addition, the long-range plan was revised to reflect updated objectives which will address the major marketing imperatives.

Dr. Ronald Ward, University of Florida, presented to the Beef Board the findings of his independent analysis of the economic impact of checkoff programs. Ward's analysis showed that the checkoff has added at least $1.45 per hundredweight to the price of live cattle. He also explained the checkoff has accounted for a 2.24 percent increase in beef demand. This translates to more than $2.5 billion in additional economic benefit to the beef industry since 1987 that would not have been there without the checkoff.

The overall return on the investment since the checkoff began, according to Ward, has been $5.70 for each one dollar invested.

Another important finding of Ward's analysis is that the checkoff is having an effect on consumer preferences. His work shows that the consumer preference shift away from beef has slowed down significantly since mid-1990s.

Congressman Charlie Stenhold, (D-Texas), chairman of the House Livestock, Dairy, and Poultry Subcommittee, told members that unity within the industry will be of great importance as the beef industry faces the challenges ahead. He also said that the beef checkoff program was important because, as a producer self-help program, it made it easier for him to get the support of other legislators in working on behalf of the beef industry.

The Beef Board took action to allocate more than $2.5 million in revenues remaining from the previous fiscal year. Additional funds allocated to program areas were promotion, $2.23 million; foreign marketing, $200,000; and program development, $170,000.

South Jersey Hosts Dairy Conference

WOODSTOWN, N.J. — Nineteen ninety-one proved to be both a frustrating and informative year for milk producers. Producers experienced wide price fluctuations at the farm level and learned that prices can be influenced by producer involvement, specifically over-order premiums.

The 1992 Dairy Conference and Trade Show will be held on Tuesday, February 4 at the Elmer Grange Hall from 6:45 p.m.-11 p.m. Admission is free. The show will feature a panel discussion with a representative from Market Administrator's Office (Order 4), Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, milk processing industry, and the director of purchasing/quality assurance for Acme Supermarkets. In addition, a representative from the New Jersey Department of Agriculture will be present to discuss the current status of the state's over-order premium.

Dairy farmers from Pennsylvania and Delaware are welcome to attend.

Harpster And O'Connor receive Dairymen Awards

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

The Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association held their annual meeting Tuesday evening in conjunction with the farm show. Highlight of the evening was the awards given to special supporters of the dairy industry.

The Charles E. Cowan award established in memory of the long time secretary and leader of the association was given to R. Wayne Harpster. Owner of Evergreen Farms, Harpster is president of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Evergreen Farms is a family operation and is one of the largest dairy operations in Pennsylvania. They ship over 8 million pounds of milk annually. The 495 head of Holsteins currently have a herd average over 18,000m 660f and 570p. They place a strong emphasis on the high quality forage program and have 1250 acres. They also have 1500 acres in pasture and woodland.

An industry leader in conservation practices and dedicated to the preservation of natural resources, Evergreen FArms were completely no-til by 1976.

Wayne and his wofe Marjorie have five children, all who are involved or have been involved in the home operation.

The recipient of the extension award is Dr. Mike O'Connor, professor of dairy science at Penn State. His primary extension work is in the area of reproductive management where he strives to aid dairymen in improving the reproductive performance of their herds. He has developed seminars and workshops on reproductive management while working with dairymen, veterinarians, extension agents, feed industry people and AI personnel. In addition, O'Connor aids the dairy industry by providing workshops to professionals on insemination technique.

O'Connor teaches classes at Penn State and is frequently asked to give guest lectures and other educational programs to out-of-state audiences. Mile has also developed an objective program on "Bovine Somatotropin" (BST) that is factual and free of the emotional overtones that often surface when the subject is discussed.

He has numerous publications to his credit. He also conducts field research in areas of integrated reproductive management and in the evaluation of AI techniques.

In the business meeting, three new directors were elected. They are Logan Bower, Michael Kunkel, and Paul Kremmel. Dr. Stan Curtis, head of the dairy and animal science department at Penn State was the featured speaker. His topic was the animal welfare issue.

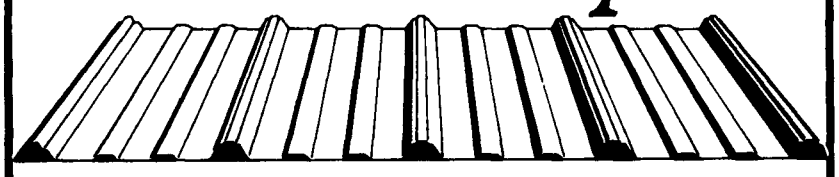
Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain™ roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING
A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

28 Foot Length Shown 1 - 28 Ft. & 2 32 Ft. Models Now In Stock

Optional deck over the neck is 7½ 'x8'

The FLIP-UP BEAVERTAIL raises and lowers in seconds -- slide out ramps are stored under the beavertail. The Hillsboro Flatbed features a full 96" deck width which is more value than the competition.

The Hillsboro Flatbed is available in two styles, the 20' and 24' trailer with standard neck, and the 28', 30' and 32' trailer with heavy duty neck.

VERSATILE — RUGGED — RELIABLE and REASONABLY PRICED!

The Hillsboro Flatbed Trailer with flip-up beavertail can be the one trailer that means lower cost for you. Here's why!!

VERSATILITY! That's what makes a Hillsboro trailer such a good investment With the beavertail down it's an excellent trailer for moving wheeled equipment. Flip the beavertail up and it adds an extra four feet of deck space for hauling hay and other bulky loads.

HERE'S WHAT HILLSBORO QUALITY MEANS - All Hillsboro trailers are manufactured in precise jigs and fixtures which assures excellent alignment of axles, a better pulling trailer, a level and square trailer.

HILLSBORO WORKMANSHIP INCLUDES-Exceptional weld quality, material that is chemically cleaned, two coats of high quality paint, material strength engineered into the best flatbed value.

The Eby Wrangler...

★ Better Looking ★ Better Built
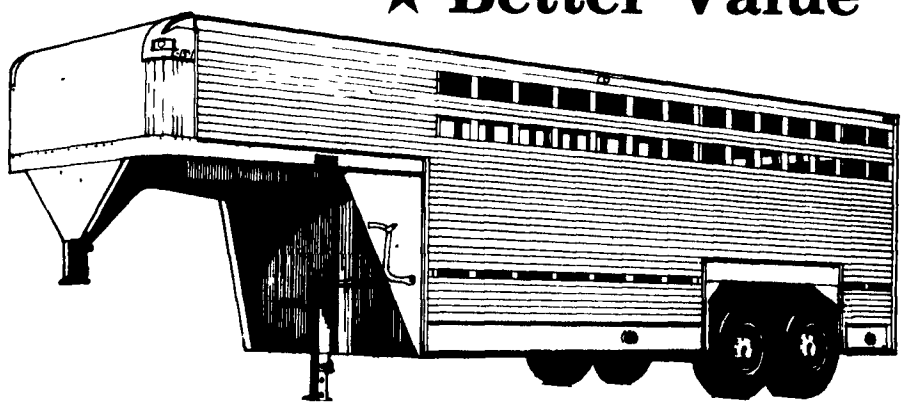
★ Better Value



The Wrangler Model 2000-OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers.

Its standard specifications, top-quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models. But the new 2000-OH is less expensive. By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories, Eby lowers the production costs for this model. Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top-value gooseneck.

Unlike other "budget" trailers on the market, the Wrangler 2000-OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality. Consider these features, standard on the new Wranger 2000-OH:

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
- Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
- Aerodynamic, attractive design
- Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
- 2-year warranty

Specifications

- Available in 14', 16', 18', 20' lengths
- 7' Width
- 6'6" Inside height

Guernsey Cops Second Supreme Farm Show Title

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

HARRISBURG — For all her accomplishments in a few-day span, Snider's Obers Icey seemed to be taking it all calmly in stride.

After delivering a heifer calf at the Farm Show Saturday, and snagging the Guernsey champion honors Tuesday morning, the big, stylish Guernsey bested the five other breed champions to take the prized supreme dairy title for the second consecutive year.

Owners Berneta and Brad Gable, of Snider's Homestead Farm in New Enterprise, were a little more excited than their composed winner, admitting that the repeat win with the five-year-old homebred "felt great."

In addition to her showring accomplishments, the VG-89 supreme champ holds her own in the milking string. In her last 365-day lactation, Icey finished with 20,275 milk, 837 fat, and 746 protein.

A large crowd turned out to applaud the parade of six dairy champs as judges Dennis Patrick and Norman Hill, both of Woodbine, Maryland, and David Dickson, Wisconsin, made their final selection for the supreme title.

Icey's top tin capped one of the largest dairy shows in recent years at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, with more than 470 head turning out for the 1992 competition. And, nearly 100 more dairy entries were turned away for lack of space, according to dair superintendent Dr. Larry Specht.

Guernsey Show

Taking reserve senior and grand Guernsey breed honors was Peb L Brook H Missy, the three-year-old homebred exhibited by Scott and Elsie Wolff, Peb L Brook Farms, Quarryville.

Guernsey junior champion was the senior calf exhibited by Rutter Bros. Dairy of York, Rutter Bros. Victory's Carol. Berneta Gable exhibited the reserve junior winners, Sniders Franks Starla, the intermediate yearling class winner.

The Snider family's four first-place wins and several other spots near the top earned the Bedford County exhibitors the premier exhibitor honors. Premier breeder award in the Guernsey show went to Robert Smith and family of Annville, Lebanon County.

In the youth show, Aaron Gable, New Enterprise, took senior and grand champion honors with his five-year-old, Snider's Fayettes Onyx, and junior champion with his junior yearling, Snider's Victory Polly. Reserve senior and grand was Jan Snider, New Enterprise, with the winning two-year-old. Reserve junior champion was the senior calf, Snider's Buttermost Hatyann exhibited by Amber Clark, New Enterprise.

Holstein Show

Sixteen-year-old Craig Walton left his mark on the Farm Show Holstein competition, taking senior and grand champion honors with C Jaybourne Roland Joyce. The winning EX-92 five-year-old is a fairly recent addition to the Walton family's Tower-Vu herd. Her impressive 3-year lactation totaled a 365-day record of 27,360 milk, 949 fat, 899 protein.

Craig's grandfather, Harry Thompson, purchased the former All New York 3-year-old at the New Holland Show and Sale a few months ago for his grandson. The Walton family and the Thompson's Fountain Farm together operate a milking herd near Carlisle, and jointly exhibited a string of eight head. Five of those belonged to champion exhibitor Craig, and earned for him rthe prestigious premier exhibitor award. Some Farm Show dairy veterans suggest that Craig is possibly the youngest premier award winner in several decades.

Reserve senior and grand Holstein honors went to the four-year-old winner, Justa-Beauty Trixie Lise, exhibited by Guy and Sharon Cornman Hammond, also of Carlisle.

Junior open class and youth division champion heifer was Allenor Globe Run SB Vanna, the senior yearling exhibited by Renne Baker, Petersburg. Reserve junior champion honors went to the junior calf exhibited by Harry and Arlene Thompson, Fountain Farm Lead Emblem.

Several top places combined to earn the prized premier breeder banner for Globe Run Farms, the Maulfair Acres added to their years of Farm Show winnings with the Ayrshire championship. Gathering ringside were the Maulfair family, Pattie with David, Jennifer, Dale at the halter and Daryl.

Brown Swiss champion honors went to the Kennedy family's Four Seasons Farm. With Jim Kennedy, at the halter, are Judge Dave Dickson and Pennsylvania alternate dairy princess Onalee Smith.

Berks Countian Scott youse hit the jackpot with his first-ever string of Farm Show entries, taking the senior and grand champion honors with his winning, three-year-old, and copping the coveted premier exhibitor award with his eight entries.

Champion Pleasant Valley Jay Imperial also performs well back home in Youse's barn at Oley R2, finishing her first 305-day lactation with 13,200 milk, 650 fat, and a 3.9-percent protein level. The Farm Show marked the champ's maiden trip onto the tanbark trail.

Taking the reserve senior and grand champion Jersey honors was the runnerup three-year-old, CLV Schlitz Sweet Sheena, exhibited by Elizabeth Jenkins, Toughkenamon.

Patricia Jenkins, Toughkenamon, claimed the junior champion honors with CLV Merry L Fuschia, the winning senior yearling. In the reserve junior champion slot was Scott Youse with the second place senior yearling.

Premier breeder honors were claimed by Craig and Susan Wicker of Centre Hall R1.

Youth division senior and grand champion was Four Springs High C Nellie Su, the five-year-old entry of Lynne Rearick, Millheim. Reserve senior and grand honors went to Paul Plummer, Chalfont, showing his two-year-old, Four Strings Admiral Amanda.

Ayrshire Show

The Dale Maulfair family, Jonestown, was the big winner in the Ayrshire competition, taking grand and reserve champion honors and sweeping both premier breeder and exhibitor awards as well.

Their homebred four-year-old, Maulfair Acres Barry Ginny, got the judge's nod for the senior and grand champion title, besting her reserve placing at last year's show. As a three-year-old, she produced a milk record of over 17,700 pounds.

Her herdmate and runnerup in the four-year class, Maulfair Acres Larry Jessica, earned the reserve champion honors for the Lebanon County Ayrshire herd. The Maulfair family has shown at the Farm Show for nearly 20 years.

Junior champion ribbons went to Jessica Lori, Scottdale, with her intermediate yearling Shiredale Roger's Chelsea. The Westmoreland County young woman also took the youth division junior champion title. Reserve open class junior champion was Plum Bottom Nel BB ET, the second place intermediate yearling exhibited by John Rodgers, Belleville.

Youth division grand and reserve champions both went to Mary Ellen Deaven, Newburg. Laneway Amigo Lovely, a three-year-old, was named champion, over Toll-Gate Ayr Magic Kittie. Reserve junior champion was the winning senior yearling, Wentworth-Farm Benf Melanie, exhibited by Richard Martin, Chambersburg.

Brown Swiss

Brown Swiss senior placings were swept by the James Kennedy family of Butler. Their 11-head string walked off with grand and reserve champions, youth champion, and both the premier breeder and exhibitor honors.

Four Seasons Telstar Tango, Jason Kennedy's homebred five-year-old, topped all contenders to snag tjhe open class champion honors. Tango is 2E, with four records over 20,000 pounds, finishing her four-year-old 365-day lactation with 21,890 milk and 890 fat. She was the 1991 junior Pennsylvania Bellringer aged cow and took national junior Bellringer honors the previous year.

Jason also exhibited the youth class champion and reserve open class winner, Four Seasons Radar Kara, a five-year0old.

Open class junior champion went to My T Fine Pride, exhibited by Ed Gill and Steve Wagner, Quarryville. Taking the reserve junior rosette was Meadow Hill Playwrite Peru, exhibited by Gary Mase, Lebanon.

Milking Shorthorn

Veteran Farm Show exhibitors, the James Young family of Newville handily swept most placings in the Milking Shorthorn competition, including both open class and youth division grand and reserve championships. Both premier breeder and exhibitor banners also went home with the Cumberland countians' Three Springs show string.

Champion honors were claimed by the Young's five-year-old dry entry, Three Springs Cherry. Cherry remains unbeaten in her class in her showring career and finished her last lactation with a 15,000 pound milk record.

First-Year 4-H Member Takes Reserve Market Hog

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) —Congratulating the efforts of the state 4-H and FFA organizations in their efforts to promote youth involvement in agriculture, the judge of the junior market swine show awarded market champion honors to a Berks Co. Swine Club 4-H member.

Judge Tom Farrer, Indiana, picked a York cross barrow exhibited by Stephanie Manbeck of Bethel, Berks County, as the champion crossbred.

The barrow "was the leanest and excelled in overall dimension," he said when awarding the class champion. "They say that beauty is in the eye of the beholder, and this one is wide, heavy, and big-footed, with a great deal of leanness and shape."

Stephanie, 14, a freshman at Tulpehocken High School, won the supreme championship class with her Yorkshire barrow. The barrow is nearly 90 percent purebred, and comes from her family's 600-sow farrow-to-finish farm in Bethel, Berks Co. She has been a member of the Berks Co. 4-H Swine Club for about five years.

Reserve supreme champion went to a Hampshire cross owned by Brandon Forry, 9, Manheim. This is Brandon's first year as an exhibitor and is a first-year Lancaster 4-H Swine Club member.

The crossbred show was the largest, with 239 hogs. Class 13 of the crossbred competition, the largest class, had a total of 19 exhibitors alone. In all, there were 314

Corn Conference Explores Weather, Marketing

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) —A wide range of topics designed to help growers enhance and maintain profitability will be addressed here at the 1992 Pennsylvania Corn Conference on March 3.

"The conference offers Cambria county corn growers a chance to get cutting-edge information that can help improve their bottom line," said Ronald Hostetler, county agent. "Top-notch experts and producers will speak on marketing, farm management, crop management and what might be in store weather-wise in 1992."

The conference's keynote address will be delivered by noted climatologist Dr. Louis Thompson, retired professor of agronomy and associate dean of agriculture at Iowa State University. Thompson's address is titled "Weather Cycles: What Do They Show for 1992?"

Another presentation, on grain marketing conditions and opportunities, will be given by John Sutton of Lovatt and Company.

A series of breakout sessions also will be offered. Dr. Michael Boehlje, University of Minnesota professor of agricultural and applied economics, will discuss critical farm management principles for the 1990s

The conference is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association. A registration fee of $8 covers the cost of lunch. To register, or for more information, contact Ronald Hostetler in the Cambria County office of Penn State Cooperative Extension at (814) 472-7986.

WINCO PTO GENERATORS
Power fails at the worst possible time—restart your whole farm with the number one PTO generator the world over!

ENERGX Corporation, the world's largest PTO generator manufacturer, designs Winco PTO units from the ground up for farm standby power. Built to handle motor loads for the duration of the power outage, and rated for continuous duty operation.

Big motors in your feed room groan to a halt. Vent fans, milk coolers stop. There are no lights, no heating, and no power in the house. For how long? Nobody knows! But with a Winco PTO generator, your farm will be back in business in minutes.

Winco PTO generators are available in sizes from 8KW to 75KW continuous duty. The Maxi-Watt® field coil windings provide extra capacity to restart a big farm at the busiest time of the day.

Winco PTO units will run a combination motor load of up to 1 HP per KW.
